NEW TAX ON TRUCKS IS URGED

Toronto Union Asks Labor Congress of Canada to Request Legislation

Says Motor Transport Cuts Down Railways So Fewer Men Employed

Canadian Press
Regina, Sept. 8.—When the delegates to the forty-sixth annual convention of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada assembled here today they were presented with 111 resolutions brought forward by various local unions and associations. Before the convention ends each one will have been discussed and approved, rejected or modified.

The convention is asked to declare itself on a wide range of topics. The resolutions cover subjects ranging from tariffs to communists, from moving pictures to fire-fighting, and relate to unemployment, old age pensions, hours of work, the cost of living, minimum wages and sale of beer and wine.

TRANSPORTATION TAXATION
The first resolution on the list is one of the most interesting. It proposes increased taxation of persons and companies engaged in the transportation of freight by motor and is proposed by a Toronto lodge of machinists. It claims the railway workers of Canada are suffering from reduced employment, due in part to the competition of trucking companies with the railways.

As the railways are compelled to maintain their own roadbeds and the trucks use the public highways, to which they contribute only a fraction of the cost, it is claimed they are able to carry freight at rates below those set by the Railway Commission.

PROVINCIAL LEGISLATION
For this reason it is proposed that the "provincial governments place a more equitable tax on motor transport companies using the highways or work in conjunction with the Dominion Railway Board toward making such rates cover motor transported freight that will correct the present unfair competition.

The resolution also protests against "the dangerous abuse of the highways now being made by motor transport companies and their total disregard for the safety of private car owners."

EMPLOYMENT INSURANCE
Another resolution urges the co-operation of the Federal and provincial governments in bringing a scheme of unemployment insurance into operation as quickly as possible. Another resolution suggests the money for unemployment insurance might be raised by a Federal tax on incomes over $8,000.

CANADIANS ARE URGED TO INVEST IN B.C.

Keep Resources in Dominion, Says Mortgage Company Association Leader

Canadian Press
Vancouver, Sept. 8.—British Columbia's vast resources can only be possessed by the people of Canada if they use them. If Canadians hesitate, foreign capital will grasp the opportunity, and financial domination can develop into political affiliation.

Such was the warning sounded by H. R. Glass, president of the mortgage and trust companies' association of British Columbia, this morning when he greeted delegates to the annual meeting of the Dominion Mortgage and Investments Association, which opened sessions for a two-day gathering here today.

Companies represented in the association control assets aggregating more than $5,000,000,000. They are meeting in British Columbia for the first time.

RAW RUBBER GOES TO RECORD LOW PRICE

London, Sept. 8.—Raw rubber touched a new low price record of fourpence a pound at Milning Lane today as a consequence of the action of the Dutch East Indies Government in declining to impose any output restriction.

The output has been sagging gradually during the last two weeks as a consequence of large stocks and poor demand, especially from America.

According to views expressed in the market, there is a possibility of prices receding to a still lower level.

Skeleton of Third Member of Andree Party Found on Lonely White Island In Arctic

The pictures reproduced above were found in the United States while the remains of Major S. A. Andree and Nils Strindberg were lying at Tromsø, northern Norway, after they had been landed there a week ago by the sealer Bratvaag from White Island. They show the balloon as it was when the flight for the North Pole was started from Spitzbergen in July, 1897. Andree and Strindberg are seen, Knute Franke, the third member, was behind Andree.

Associated Press and Canadian Press
Stockholm, Sept. 8.—Discovery of a human skeleton believed to be that of Knute Franke, third member of the Andree expedition, among the remains of the Andree camp on White Island, was reported yesterday by the whaler Isbjørn, which has a party of journalists aboard.

A number of scientific instruments, weapons, pieces of the gondola of the Andree balloon and Franke's notebook also were reported found. The camp was in excellent order.

Members of the Isbjørn party expressed the belief that the deaths of the explorers in 1897 were caused by some sudden catastrophe, such as a blizzard.

The bodies of Salomon August Andree and Nils Strindberg, found recently on White Island, are to be brought here soon by ship from Tromsø, Northern Norway.

BRITAIN LOOKS FOR INCREASED CANADA TRADE

Future of Canada's Exports to United Kingdom Good, Commerce Chamber Told

Old Country Turning Eyes to Canada for Trade Development, Commissioner Says

"The Old Country is slowly groping towards a solution of problems everyone now realizes cannot be solved without drastic changes. Rationalization of industry is one of them which is taking place in such industries as cotton manufacture, ship building, coal mining and the iron and steel industry."

Another is greater interdependence. The need for that is universally recognized, but the methods for bringing it about are the subject of bitter controversy.

DIVERS FAR DOWN EXPLORE LOST VESSEL

Walk on Second Deck of S.S. Egypt, on Bottom off French Coast; Hunt for $5,000,000

Coming of Rough Weather Expected to End Search Till Next Spring

Canadian Press
Brest, France, Sept. 8.—With the first deck of the sunken liner Egypt completely laid open, Italian divers to-day proceeded to explore the second deck, preparing the way for work next spring on the third deck. The third deck is expected to yield lost treasure amounting to several million dollars.

The Egyptian, a Peninsular and Oriental liner bound from England to India, was sunk in a collision with a French cargo vessel in 1922 off the French coast.

KEY FOUND
The key to the bullion room containing $5,000,000 in gold, silver and diamonds was found yesterday by the divers.

The safe, brought up last week by divers working for an Italian salvage company, was opened by experts. Among the other things found were a half-rotten mail bag containing British government letters and documents addressed to various British consulates. The log book was not found.

The weather, however, has steadily grown worse so the divers expect the work will have to be abandoned for this year.

More than 100 persons lost their lives when the Egypt sank. The vessel lies in 365 feet of water.

MRS. C. E. PHIPPS DIED SUNDAY

Had Resided Here 31 Years; Was Honorary President of V.O.N.

Widely known and loved for her many philanthropies during her thirty years' residence in Victoria, Mrs. Susan Stewart Phipps passed away yesterday morning at her home, 1513 Elford Street, after an illness of eight weeks' duration, at the advanced age of eighty-six years.

Born at Hamilton, Ontario, in 1844, Mrs. Phipps was the daughter of the late Dean of Niagara. Very Rev. J. O. Quides, and Mrs. Geddes. She was married in Hamilton on June 2, 1868, to the late Major C. E. Phipps, who predeceased her in 1906, and for a number of years after her marriage lived in England.

Mrs. Phipps came to Victoria thirty-seven years ago and during the whole of that time had been an active member of St. Barnabas Church. Possessed of a very ardent and kindly disposition, she gave readily of her services in the causes of others less fortunate, and she was one of the original members of the Home Nursing Society, which subsequently developed into the Victorian Order of Nurses. For many years Mrs. Phipps was president of the V.O.N., until advancing years necessitated her taking a less onerous position. Some years ago she made its honorary

BERRY LOAN IS PAID; GROWERS SHARE BALANCE

Province Repaid Advance Made on Processed Crop of 1929

Farmers Expect to Receive Final Cheques in Two Weeks

Strawberry growers of Saanich and the lower mainland, will shortly receive final payment on the processed strawberry pack of last year, Col. D. B. Martyn, industries commissioner, this morning announced the growers have fully liquidated the loan received from the province in 1929 and the remainder of the proceeds of sales will be released to the Berry Processors Limited for distribution to the various growers' associations.

The province in 1929 placed an appropriation of $70,000 at the disposal of the growers, but not all that amount was required. The money was solely used for purchase of sugar and containers for the fruit, the growers being unpaid for their berries and the cold storage houses waiting for their charges until the processed fruit was sold. A number of interim distributions have already been made to farmers from sales.

Markets Commissioner W. W. Duncan expressed satisfaction with the success of the venture in extending the selling period for berries. Early spring he was of the opinion that the growers would do well to accept offers of eight and one-half cents for their crop, but the drastic reduction in production in all parts of the continent enables the Berry Processors Limited to dispose of the bulk of the crop at above ten cents per pound. This will give the growers an average return which is expected to prove little below six and one-half cents per pound for fruit which otherwise would have been destructive to the 1929 market, or would have been allowed to rot in the fields.

Blacksmith's Anvil Policy To Enforce B.C. Liquor Law

Horrible Examples Will Bring Observance, Says H. B. Thomson, New Chairman

Strong arm method will be enforced to bring about a strict observance of the British Columbia Liquor Act, H. B. Thomson, chairman of the Liquor Control Board, intimated today in a discussion of the policy to be followed by the new board.

"To impress the situation on the people's mind," he said, "we will have to get some horrible examples, and in handling these as in most cases of the kind, justice cannot be tempered with mercy or consideration."

"When the history of the liquor administration is written perhaps some of our rulings and actions may savor more of the blacksmith's anvil than

Three or Four Courses Operated Sunday in Vancouver to Be Prosecuted

Players Seen in Action After Warning Given by City Prosecutor

Vancouver, Sept. 8.—Prosecution of three or four miniature golf courses in Vancouver which were in operation Sunday is planned by city police authorities.

Recently a prosecution was launched against a west end course under the Lord's Day Act and City Prosecutor W. M. McKay warned owners of other such games they must keep them closed on Sundays or they would be summoned to court.

Police also have received a report that the games at Happyland, Hastings Park, were in operation for a time on Sunday. Application has already been made to Victoria for a flat in this case.

PREFERENCE FOR WHITE MEN AND SINGLE WOMEN

Suggested by Chamber of Commerce Committee Considering Unemployment

Recommendations Made to Directors' Meeting This Afternoon

Employment of white labor wherever possible and unmarried women in place of married women whose husbands are also earning an income are included in recommendations to meet the unemployment problem made by the special committee of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce.

The report of the chairman, Reginald Hayward, M.P.P., states the committee discussed the situation fully and conferred with representatives of labor unions. The recommendations read:

"That an appeal be made to all citizens to use white labor wherever possible in the place of Oriental labor."

"That employers be urged to employ unmarried women who are obliged to earn their own living, or to work in support of others, in the place of many married women who are now employed and whose husbands are also earning an income."

"That, as a measure of giving relief to unemployed men the civic authorities be requested to continue as much public work as possible through the winter months."

"That plans be made to hold a regular conference in the future between representatives of employers, employees, city and provincial governments and the chamber of commerce; such conferences to represent all classes in the community."

Mr. Hayward stated that it was only an interim report. His committee realized the importance of the question and would report further findings to the chamber. The statement was received without discussion by the meeting.

Argument on M.P.'s Seat Is Lively One

Ottawa, Sept. 8.—Proceedings in the House of Commons were enlivened shortly after noon today when the members were returning from the Senate Chamber. Major-General Sir Eugene Flax, Liberal, Rimouski, Que., apparently took exception to the seat which had been allocated to him by Chief Liberal Whip, Pierre Casgrain.

The argument developed considerable heat in the House, in which flares were kindled before A. A. Heaps, Labor member for Winnipeg North, intervened and the incident closed.

Parliament Is Told in Speech From Throne Opening Special Session That Exceptional Economic Conditions and Unemployment Are Causes of Members Being Called to Ottawa; New Government Believes Tariff Changes "Will Do Much to Meet Unusual Conditions."

Canadian Press
Ottawa, Sept. 8.—Brevity characterized the speech from the Throne read by the Governor-General at the opening session of the Seventeenth Parliament of Canada this afternoon. Exceptional economic conditions and unemployment were given as the reasons for the summoning of parliament, namely, amendments to the Customs Act and to the customs tariff, and the view was expressed that these "will do much to meet the unusual conditions which now prevail." There were only three paragraphs in the speech, and four sentences.

ANTI-DISEASE BATTLE IN STORM AREA

Biggest Fight Now at Santo Domingo Is to Prevent Epidemics

Planes Only Means of Travel to Indies Island's Interior Points

Canadian Press
Washington, Sept. 8.—The Navy Department today announced a destroyer would be sent to Santo Domingo with medical and relief supplies to aid hurricane victims.

Washington, Sept. 8.—The United States Red Cross arranged today to send 5,000 pounds of surgical dressings, anti-toxin and anaesthetics to Santo Domingo by airplane.

Santo Domingo, Sept. 8.—Santo Domingo, razed by a hurricane last Wednesday, which took more than 4,000 lives, today feared outbreaks of disease would visit another scourge here nearly or as bad as the storm itself.

Insufficient medical supplies, the fifth of the unclean streets and the lack of food and other nourishment all contributed to a condition which had native and visiting physicians here very much worried. Cremation of bodies of the dead continued.

The attitude of the physicians probably is best indicated in that all are taking every prophylactic injection possible.

It is known there are already more than 1,000 storm victims here who have gangrene or other infections.

MANY INOCULATED
At one camp yesterday more than 1,500 persons took antitoxin inoculations for typhoid.

As sanitary measures the physicians here feel the city's streets should be cleaned of all the debris accumulated since the storm, but the task is proving an impossible one, simply because there is hardly an automobile or truck or wagon in the country which was not damaged greatly in the hurricane.

One of the principal immediate needs here is good drinking water. Work has been started in re-establishing the power house, and in reconstruction of the water line which kept the city supplied heretofore.

CANADA SOUGHT
EMPIRE TRADE
BACK IN 1896H. B. Thomson Deals With
Subject at Vancouver
Canadian ClubOld Principle of Supply and Demand is Only Paramount
Ruling Theory

Vancouver, Sept. 8.—The question of inter-empire trade occupies the minds of almost all thinking men throughout the King's dominions, and at the coming Imperial Conference, at which all parts of the Empire will be represented, this question will be uppermost, and the result of that conference will indicate what lines the future expansion and consolidation of the Empire will take.

Thus Chairman H. B. Thomson of the British Columbia Liqueur Control Board, Canada's war-time food controller, to-day prefaced an address on intra-empire trade to the Vancouver Canadian Club.

"In that excellent book of Professor Stephen Leacock just issued, 'Economic Principles in the British Empire,' the position is summed up in these words," Mr. Thomson continued:

"It is within the reach of statesmanship to initiate in the British Empire an era of progress and prosperity such as the world has never yet seen anywhere at any time."

AN IMPERIAL POLICY.

"The statement of the Empire will foregather in London, the heart of the Empire," Mr. Thomson pursued, "and they will be fully impressed with the importance of their work as each will realize that individual problems will be solved as a result of the conference, and welded into one Imperial policy."

"Since the declaration of war in August, 1914, the minds of the public and the business men of the Empire have sought to grapple with the situation, but no general solution has yet been reached, and the war completely disoriented and upset the trade of the world, and as a result of the war, new problems, new conditions and new circumstances have had to be faced."

"Experiments have been made on many lines. Crank theories have been tried out, and in process of time experiments have been made with the channels and methods of world trade which took centuries to build up, and which have been looked upon as dangerous and tried down to many examples. Among them might be mentioned the Wheat Pool—and you all know what effect this has had on business in general throughout Canada."

"Through the conditions brought about by the war, many people get away from the fundamental fact that the old principle of supply and demand is the only paramount ruling theory. In this regard Britain has her surplus of manufactured merchandise. On the other hand eighty per cent of the foodstuffs consumed in the British Isles is imported. To get down to details in this connection, a few figures may be of interest:

"England sends money out of the country at the rate of $5,000 per day for foodstuffs. The total money paid out for foodstuffs imports amounts to $2,555,000,000 per annum, or at the rate of $7,000,000 daily. Imports of butter, bacon, eggs, cheese and pork exceed $17,500,000 per week. Egg imports into Britain increased from $57,500,000 in 1920 to over $100,000,000 in 1928.

"New Zealand increased her cheese and butter exports from $35,965,875 in 1920 to $99,983,000 in 1928. In 1928 Britain imported over 21,000,000 dozen eggs from Egypt, China and Morocco. The imported foodstuffs for the British breakfast table run into fabulous figures each year:

Bacon and pig products... $275,000,000
Eggs... 100,000,000
Butter... 275,000,000

Total... $650,000,000

"Therefore the money sent out of the country amounts to $1,780,925 a day for British breakfast foodstuffs. New Zealand exports of frozen mutton and beef increased from $24,786,880 in 1918 to $51,548,310 in 1928. Butter imports into Great Britain from Denmark increased from $58,800,000 in 1920 to $93,684,365 in 1929. Denmark increased her bacon export to England from $35,000,000 in 1920 to $137,500,000 in 1929.

"Many people will say that surely if the British farmers energized they could produce more eggs, butter and bacon. That is obvious, as Denmark has done it, and from a poor impoverished country thirty years ago, her exports to Great Britain alone yearly in those commodities amount to:

Bacon... $136,147,880
Butter... 98,684,365
Eggs... 23,400,720

Total... $258,237,865

"The Danes are a thrifty, intelligent people, and under government guidance have succeeded marvelously. But the

Executions in Soviet Russia

Moscow, Sept. 8.—The OGPU (Soviet secret police) announced last night that six persons had been shot yesterday and others had been sentenced to imprisonment for attempting to disrupt the food market by acquiring large quantities from government shops under false pretences and reselling the food privately at high prices. The OGPU said that had broken up the ring.

AGED WOMAN IS KILLED BY AUTO

Winnipeg, Sept. 8.—An automobile and a train, fatality and two suicides made up the week-end violent death-roll on the prairies. All of these occurred in Saskatchewan and for the second week-end of the last three months no fatalities or serious accidents were reported in Manitoba.

At Saskatoon, Mrs. Mary Lambert, seventy-eight, was fatally injured when struck by an automobile in which her grandson was a passenger. She was carried nearly twenty yards on the car before she fell to the pavement. Michael Connors of Swift Current, Saskatchewan, was killed when struck by a Canadian Pacific Railway passenger train near Waldeck. William T. Cramp of Sceptre, Saskatchewan, was found dead in a hotel room at Swift Current. There was a bullet wound in the head and a revolver was found near the body. In a creek near Cadillac, the body of Frank G. Thompson was found yesterday. He disappeared from his home Saturday. He had been worried by financial troubles.

S. W. STRAUS, FINANCIER, OF NEW YORK, DIES

Known as Originator of Modern First Mortgage Real Estate Bond

New York, Sept. 8.—Simon William Straus, noted financier and chairman of the board of S. W. Straus and Company, died at his suite in the Hotel Ambassador here yesterday. He was sixty-three and had been ill for more than a year.

Generally recognized as the originator of the modern first mortgage real estate bond, Straus was one of the pioneers in aiding the development of the skyscraper.

His company was among the first to finance large buildings and the banker won wide recognition through his plan for safeguarding first mortgage loans on improved real estate and making this form of security available to the general investing public.

FAMILY FROM GERMANY
Straus started his career in Chicago. His father, Frederick William Straus, founded the Citizens' Bank in Ligonier, Ind., after he had come to this country from Germany. Later he moved to Chicago and opened a small mortgage office, his son entering the business in 1884.

The firm, first known as A. W. Straus and Company, became, when the father retired, S. W. Straus and Company, the son taking over the management.

Mr. Straus assumed the presidency when the concern was incorporated in 1905 after a rapid growth. He continued in that post until 1929, when he became chairman of the board. He moved to New York in 1916 and devoted the major part of his time to that office and the development of branches throughout the country.

THE ROCKFOILS

By JOHN HUTCHISON, F.R.H.S.

While in England the Rockfoils family, or Saxifraga, are considered by all odds the most valuable of rock garden plants, on this continent they do not seem to be as popular as their great usefulness warrants.

There is no family of rock garden plants that is so extensive as the Saxifraga. There are nearly 400 recognized species, and in addition to the true species there are hundreds of varieties of natural and of garden production.

The family is distributed all over the north temperate zone, and often extends into the Arctic. They are found in the Pyrenees, the European Alps, as well as in the lowlands. There are said to be 107 species in Europe alone.

The Europeans are, speaking generally, the most useful for garden purposes and they form the bulk of the cultivated species. Some species, like Saxifraga oppositifolia, are found all over the north temperate zone and the Arctic, while others are found in very restricted districts. For instance, Saxifraga marginata is found only in Italy and Saxifraga media only in the Pyrenees.

There are a few in the Caucasus, the best known of which is Juniperifolia. The large-leaved Megasea section are found in the Himalayas and in Siberia.

MANY FROM CHINA
During recent years, owing to the vast numbers of collectors that have been wandering in the highlands of China, many new kinds have been introduced into cultivation. Our own continent of North America is not rich in Saxifraga, about forty species only being found and the best of these are also found in Europe or Asia, or both. One exception must be made, however, in favor of the great Umbrella Plant (Saxifraga peltata) which, with its large leaves and pink flowers in the spring, makes such an attractive subject for the waterside or the bog garden. There are a few species found in South America but, so far as the writer knows, none are in cultivation.

The great differences that exist between various members of this vast family are very striking, from the tiny Saxifraga Baldensis to the giant Peltata three or four feet high. Between these two we have a whole host of beautiful things suitable for many different positions in the garden.

THE MOSSY SECTION
For covering moist banks we have the mossy section, providing green carpets the year round and covered in spring with white, pink or red flowers. For crevices and ledges in the rock work we have many kinds and none are better for this purpose than the encrusted section, with their silvery rosettes.

For the border or the wild garden we have the Megasea group, with their large leaves and pink or rosy-purple flowers.

For use in the bog garden there are several kinds which may be used in addition to the giant Peltata, such as the British native Saxifraga hirculus, with golden-yellow flowers in July; Saxifraga acaulis, with yellow or crimson flowers, a very free spreading plant, and Saxifraga aspera, with creamy colored flowers.

LONG FLOWERING PERIOD
The flowering period of the Saxifraga family extends over most of the year. It commences in January with Saxifraga burseriana, the other members of the Kabachia group following soon after and through the spring months. In March Saxifraga oppositifolia comes into bloom with its sheets of pink flowers. In April the mossy section begins to flower and towards the end of the month the encrusted section starts to open their blooms, which continue until the end of June and later. Later on the season is finished by the flowering of the Chinese Saxifraga Fortunei and the Japanese Saxifraga Gortalsaeifolia.

It will be seen by this brief review that there are plants for everyone in the Saxifraga family, no matter what sort of a garden one has.

The whole subject of Saxifraga as garden plants is very interesting and anyone who feels that he would like to know this genus intimately should get the late E. A. Maly's book "Saxifraga or Rockfoils," which is perhaps the best treatise that has ever been written about this family. As Mr. Maly was one of the greatest photographers of outdoor subjects in England, the illustrations, many of them in natural colors, are a great addition to the value of the work.

HARD CAMPAIGNS HAD BROKEN HIM DOWN IN HEALTH

Imperial British Army Veteran
Tells of Gruelling Experience
During World War

"I've always been a strong, healthy man, but the hard campaigning we went through during the World War in Europe finally broke down my health. My trouble started back in 1918. We were pushing the Bulgars back in the Balkans, and the forced marches, with nothing to eat some-times—or eating what we could get—got me down with a terrible attack of dysentery. I was the only one of my cavalry platoon who came back, and they put me in the hospital for five weeks. Then to the lines again before I had fully recovered. Right on top of that the Spanish flu hit me, and I was back in the hospital again for three weeks, when they had to turn me out again too soon—so many poor chaps were so much worse off than I was.

"After 1918, I volunteered and served the Empire in Southern Russia and Armenia, but soon discovered that my illness left me with what developed into a terrible case of stomach trouble and chronic constipation. For twelve long years I never knew what it was to eat a meal in peace—suffered constantly with gas on my stomach, indigestion and heartburn—and it just about had me 'whipped.' I'm only forty, but my hair is more than half white from the long fight trying to get well again.

THE SPECIAL SESSION

THE SPECIAL SESSION OF PARLIAMENT which began to-day has been called in pursuance of Mr. Bennett's specific pledge to end unemployment by parliamentary action. It is expected that the House will complete its labors within two weeks, after which the Prime Minister and two of his colleagues will leave for London to attend the Imperial and Economic Conferences.

During the recent election campaign Mr. Bennett and his supporters placed the blame for Canada's unemployment problem on the King government. That government got no credit at all for the prosperity that immediately preceded the depression which set in about twelve months ago. The people were told that if work was to be provided for the idle, Mr. Bennett must be elected to office. "Elect me," he said, "and I will end unemployment." Mr. Bennett's opportunity now has arrived.

It is noteworthy, however, that no sooner had the new government moved in at Ottawa than several of its members discovered that the unemployment problem was not a problem peculiar to Canada, but was part of a world condition. Mr. Bennett and his supporters knew all this before the election, of course, but they carefully avoided any admission of the fact. Their one object was to drive it into the heads of the Canadian people that the King government had been pursuing policies which had produced this unfortunate situation—and they accomplished their purpose in a fairly decisive way.

Recognizing that it was one thing to promise to end unemployment and quite another thing to make good the promise, the new government and its newspaper supporters have been careful to explain that the session which began at Ottawa to-day had been called to "deal" with unemployment. There is a difference between "ending" unemployment and "dealing" with unemployment. The people of Canada will judge the new government by its deeds, not by its promises.

NO POLITICS IN THE C.N.R.

IN A LENGTHY LEADING ARTICLE yesterday the morning paper recommended that Parliament have more direct control of the operations of the Canadian National Railways. As the directors of this system now have to go to Parliament for the money required for its operation, what our contemporary evidently wants is the government to run the railroad, thus disposing of Sir Henry Thornton and his board of directors.

This, of course, would throw the Canadian National Railways into party politics to its complete bedevilment, not to speak of the resultant bedevilment of the country. The inevitable outcome of such a situation would be a transportation monopoly under private auspices.

The people of Canada would vigorously—if not violently—resent any attempt by Parliament to debase their railroad by dragging it into party politics as a preliminary to its sale to private interests at bargain counter prices. No government which tried this manoeuvre would last long in oblivion; it could not be seen with Dr. Plaskett's big telescope. Parliament has ample power to protect the public interest in a financial sense now, and, where necessary, should exercise it. But the actual conduct of the system itself should be continued outside the field of political interference.

GANDHI'S PROPOSAL REJECTED

HOPES THAT HAD BEEN ENTER-tained for an early end of the trouble in India seem less bright than they were. Mahatma Gandhi's peace terms were not acceptable to the Viceroy. He demanded a full national government, responsible only to the people of India, and with the right to secede at any time from the British Empire.

In addition to these main points, the proposal stipulated as follows: That the government should have full control of defence forces as well as full economic control; that it be given the right to refer to an independent tribunal such British claims and concessions, including the Indian public debt, as seemed to them unjust; that political prisoners not found guilty of violence should be released, their confiscated property restored, and any fines paid be refunded; that village officers, who resigned with the start of the civil resistance movement and were dismissed, should be reinstated if they so desired; that all special restraining ordinances be repealed. If the Viceroy had accepted these terms, Gandhi would have called off the disobedience programme in general; but with the understanding that the illicit manufacture of salt and the picketing of foreign cloth and liquor shops were to continue. The Mahatma agreed, however, that no more raids upon government salt depots would be organized.

Few were optimistic enough to expect the first attempt to reach an agreement would be successful. The history of the Irish question is a grim reminder of the difficulties that will have to be overcome before the conflict between the British view and the Indian view can be disposed of. Gandhi probably was not in the least surprised when informed that the Viceroy had rejected his demands. But it was hardly likely he would begin his peace overtures with anything less than the maximum he would prefer. He will want to bargain and whittle down only when there is no other course open to him. His proposal, however, is not as drastic as might have been expected. The demand for complete independence apparently has been dropped from the nationalistic programme. True, Gandhi asks for the right to secede from the British Empire if the people of India so wish. Such a decision would, of course, be wholly with them once Dominion status had been conferred upon this country. Premier Hertzog occasionally reminds the British Commonwealth that South Africa could drop out of the empire at any time. But there is no indication that such a development is likely to take place. And were he to serve notice to this effect on the government at Westminster, the soldiers would be sent to defy it.

The disturbing feature about Gandhi's demands is that they suggest a disinclination on the part of the extremists to be represented at the round-table conference in London next month. This would be very unfortunate, for at that gathering it should be possible for Gandhi or his associates to do more for their cause and more for India than through any other medium. But no good will come of it if an attitude of outright belligerence shall be adopted. The British Empire is the success it is to-day because of the mutual understanding which exists between its various member states. The Nationalists of India will serve themselves and their country poorly if they try to change the system which has produced that success.

SAANICH AND LIQUOR PROFITS

UNLESS ITS SHARE OF LIQUOR profits for the last half of this year shall considerably exceed that of the first six months, Saanich will be $4,500 below its estimates for 1930.

This, no doubt, will be the experience of other municipalities whose estimates were drawn up before the government announced that the total liquor profits available for distribution to them would be limited to $1,000,000, irrespective of how the profits might increase from year to year.

Fortunately, Saanich is in good financial shape, or the loss of $4,500 would be a serious business. Other municipalities, however, may find the drop in this form of revenue difficult to make up without increasing taxation.

TOO LATE

THE PRIZE POINT OF THIS POST-election period is made by The Toronto Telegram. It tells us in effect that if the King government had not served notice on New Zealand that the butter duty would be increased from one cent a pound to four cents, that Dominion would not have been provoked into removing Canadian motor cars and automobile accessories from its preferential tariff.

Apart from the fact that New Zealand amended her automobile tariff after the Bennett government took office, not before. The Telegram's belated complaint is too silly for words. As an eastern contemporary reminds this Toronto supporter of the new administration, if there was one subject on which Mr. Bennett was more emphatic than on any other, it was New Zealand butter: "not a pound of the accursed stuff was to be allowed to enter Canada to the 'destruction' of our dairy industry."

It was obvious, of course, that the New Zealand government did not expect any reversal of policy on the part of Canada under an administration headed by Mr. Bennett. But the serious thing as far as the Canadian motor car industry is concerned—with additional unemployment in prospect—is that the protests now being made are too late.

The time to think of what New Zealand might do, if her chief export to Canada were taxed higher, was before July 28. Although it was the Dunning budget which provided for the reimposition of the old duty, the hollowness of the Conservative case, now apparent to everybody, even The Toronto Telegram, no doubt would have influenced a change of policy.

WHAT OTHER PAPERS SAY

NATIONAL QUESTION
The Toronto Star

While the approval of one set of plans or another set of plans for a railway terminal in Montreal may seem of small moment to Toronto, nevertheless the principle of overriding Sir Henry, undoing the work Parliament has already done, wasting much of the money already expended, and injecting politics into the management of the National Railways is of nationwide importance and will attract nationwide attention. As for alternative plans—they are the well-known and accepted means of killing any project. And they can usually be made to appear attractive. They may, indeed, have their own merits. But Sir Henry has shown himself to be an able and a wise executive. Sir Henry having approved plans for Montreal terminals, and a beginning having been made on the execution of these plans, no alternative scheme can be presented at this time without exciting the gravest suspicions of political motives—and perhaps other motives of which it would be unpleasant to speak.

Twenty-five Years Ago To-day

The Victoria Daily Times, September 8, 1905

Although nothing definite is announced by the promoters of the proposed guano factory on Saanich Inlet, it is practically assured that the enterprise will be established. As was stated in these columns several days ago, Captain Walker of Honolulu and the Victoria Chemical Company are those principally interested in the venture.

There are few ships which pass through two typhoons and escape so fortunately as did the Decan, which arrived yesterday from Hongkong. The vessel is a Britisher of 1,830 tons which comes here in ballast under charter to load at Chemainus. She will be towed to her loading port to-day.

On Sunday a party will leave Victoria for the meeting of the Fire Chiefs of the Pacific Northwest at Portland. Chief Watson of this city will attend.

An important parade of the Fifth Regiment will be held next Tuesday evening at the Drill Hall. The "fall-in" will sound at 8 o'clock sharp, and each company is expected to be prepared to take its place at that time.

The examination of the sine deposits of Kootenay undertaken by the Dominion Government will be begun to-morrow or Thursday, at the latest, says The Nelson News of Tuesday.

Loose Ends

A contemplative column on views —and other things that don't matter—but are supremely important.

By H. B. W.

MANY OF my friends, victims of the general delusion that distance and speed are the sole objects of their holidays have been telling me of the splendid scenery to be found in distant places. Well, they can keep their splendid scenery and distant places. I will remain faithful to those old, familiar views which I have learned to know through the years, finding in them qualities invisible to the casual observer, the rusher-by. Views and scenery, I think, should be like friends, whom you must know well to appreciate. Just as there is something satisfying and comfortable about the homely face of an old friend, which you cannot find in the dazzling beauty of a heartless woman, so there is something to refresh the soul in an old familiar landscape, however humble and unpretentious, which the snow-capped peaks of the Rockies, or the thundering falls of Niagara, cannot supply.

BEST OF all, then, I like the little view from that window yonder. It is not a grand or noble view, but it is an old and faithful one, which labors through the whole year to present a different aspect each month, so that we never tire of it. You see it now with the Sooke Hills almost hidden in the haze, the forests in the distance quite blue and the rolling fields in the foreground baked to a rich yellow. The great oaks close at hand are still green, and in front of them is a patch of roses, red, pink and yellow in their second offering of bloom this season. And while he adds nothing to the picture, the view from the window is something about old George Pudbury, in his torn straw hat, khaki shirt and blue overalls, ploughing behind our black horse, that is very comforting. He makes us feel that even in this day of civilization and progress we are still near enough to the soil out our way to be fairly sane.

A MONTH FROM now this old re-latable landscape will have changed its whole outlook for our benefit. The hills will be distinct and sharp against the sky again, after the first fall rains have cleared the air. The fields will be green with a new growth of grass. The brown oak leaves will be swirling down everywhere, eddying about the garden, piling up in sheltered spots. There will be no roses then, but the dogwood tree will be scarlet in their last farewell to summer. And Pudbury, perhaps, will be sowing his fall wheat, throwing it from side to side with his two hands as he strolls down the field.

A LITTLE LATER the bare limbs of the oaks will wave against a gray sky, the birds, except the hardy quail, will be gone, a fire of oak logs will crackle in the fireplace and, if we are lucky, old Pudbury will be around with a great demijohn of that good old Devonshire cider which he makes from the apples off the old tree that grows wild down by the great ditch. Before we realize that the year has turned, the snowdrops will be out, with little clumps of yellow and purple crocuses here and there. Then will come the white lilies between the oaks, the nodding reds of the ranunculus, and while we are still waiting for spring it will be upon us, and the oaks and the dogwoods and the rolling fields will be vivid with the extra-brilliant green of spring. And old Pudbury will be sowing his spring corn as he and his fathers have sowed it through the centuries.

UP AT OUR lake there is another little landscape which we love, but which I fear you would not find impressive. You go down a long trail where the bracken is above your head, and you stumble against the clinging, prickly tendrils of the wild blackberries, and after climbing over three fallen trees and under two others, you come at last to the edge of a swamp. But this is no ordinary swamp. This is a swamp where, stepping from log to log and rock to rock, you can walk among great ferns five feet high; where the grey-barked alder trees and cedars provide perpetual twilight, even at noonday, and there are fallen logs coated with six inches of green moss, where you can sit and dream. In the spring the trifolium, with their three petals and their three green leaves, grow in their thousands among the ferns, and the frogs croak softly to one another all day long. In the fall the maples spread great clouds of yellow among the evergreens above you, and their leaves come sailing and tumbling down in torrents, until the whole dried-up floor of our bog is covered with a yellow mat, through which you can rustle your boots deliciously as you walk.

IN THIRD place, at the risk of seem-ing disloyal to our own Island, I think I would put a little view which you will find at the end of a twisting road starting at the junction of the two Thompsons and wandering into the hills. If you will walk from the end of this road through a forest of those great red-barked pines of the interior, you will come presently to a bare hillside, where the wind is always blowing and nothing grows but little tufts of bunchgrass and sagebrush in the baked, grey soil. Look out, then, to the west over an open-cup-shaped valley, perhaps five miles across. Below you, following the valley's course in many a curve, winds the road. On either side of it the hills sweep up, bare and grey to the timber line. Then in huge, uneven patches the poplar trees sprout against the pines, yellow against green, to the summit and on into the furthest distance, where the steel-blue line of the highest, snow-capped mountains stand on the other side of the North Thompson.

AS YOU stand there on an autumn day, just outside the pine forests, on that bare, rolling hill, you seem to be at the top of the world, while the winds of the world whistle past you with a touch of frost and the smell of autumn, and yellow leaves, and the sharper perfume of the pines in their breath.

A WARNING TO THE DEAF

To the Editor—In the interest of those who are seeking relief for deafness, I trust you will insert this letter. For the last few years I have been getting very deaf and about four months ago I was led to believe a certain earphone would assist me to hear, and was foolish enough to pay $55 for same without first stipulating for a free trial at home, which is very different from listening with the appliance to a traveling salesman who is out to make a sale and is a trained speaker.

A week or so afterwards when I received the instrument from the distributors back east I found, after giving the appliance every possible trial, that, of course, I returned it, and two or three others that were sent me in exchange, and for which, needless to say, I had to pay the carriage each way. But finding none of these gave me any use to me whatever, I wrote saying that I would return the earphone, and naturally expected they would return me the $55 I had paid, allowing them a fair rebate for the trial I had had. But the distributors for Canada, also the manufacturers in New York, coolly informed me that they never refunded any money on instruments paid for, and did not give trials, although I found when too late that one of the leading firms of druggists in Victoria who stock this brand of instrument, always give a free trial of four or five days before a purchase is made.

I find now there are plenty of firms who give free trials on instruments for the deaf, and also pay the carriage each way, and advise those requiring an appliance for deafness to insist on a free trial before making a purchase. The instrument I have will no doubt be of use to many others than myself, as there are different forms of deafness, and what will benefit one is often useless to another, but there are many like myself who have, after once parting with their cash, found in return they have $55 worth of experience only.

When Irigoyen Government
Ousted by Revolutionists

Ex-president, III, Is Held Prisoner at Infantry Barracks

By Nelson J. Riley, Associated Press Correspondent.

Buenos Ayres, Sept. 8.—With the Irigoyen government ousted Saturday by an army-navy rebellion, and the ageing former president held a prisoner, the movement spread yesterday to a number of other provinces in the republic.

Troops of the revolutionary junta took control of Santa Fe and Rosario, the two principal cities of Santa Fe province—the 12th Infantry holding Santa Fe and the 11th occupying Rosario.

In the city of Santiago, in the province of Del Beato, when news of the revolution in Buenos Ayres was received, 2,000 persons paraded the streets and shouted for the new government, police attempting to disperse them but afterwards joining the manifestation.

Other demonstrations which brought the communities over to the side of the revolution, which have come to Mendoza and Parana and in La Plata, where Irigoyen is held a prisoner in the barracks of the 7th Infantry.

GIVEN FREE HAND
In the province of San Juan, Lisandro Salas, who was the federal interventor in the provincial administration under orders of Irigoyen, anticipated the fall of his government and resigned, leaving a free hand to the opposition. The Irigoyen policy of federal intervention is considered one of the things that brought about his downfall.

Meanwhile the capital is under strict martial regime with the leader of the revolt, Gen. Jose Evaristo Uriburu, as provisional president with a civilian cabinet.

IRIGOYEN IS ILL
The ex-president, who is elderly, is both a patient and a prisoner at La Plata. He is suffering from pneumonia, aggravated by the excitement and discouragement which have come to him in the last few days, and has a high temperature. Two physicians were at his bedside all last night, under orders from the new government to give him all possible medical care. He was assured by Co. Giordano, in charge of the provincial troops, that he would be well cared for and guarded against violence.

The story of the former President's adventures on Saturday is dramatic. He had kept inside during most of the disturbed week that brought about the outbreak and after the cabinet had run up the white flag to the oncoming revolutionaries Saturday evening no one knew where Irigoyen was. Some reports said he had fled to a cruiser for refuge.

TAKEN TO BARRACKS
Eventually it was learned the President had dashed from his home in a motor car after receiving word that the revolt had triumphed. Loyal police holding up traffic near his home in the Calle Brazil for several minutes. Police on the side of the revolutionaries pursued the car and intercepted it at La Plata, where Irigoyen, so it is said, had to be aided to alight from the car, was taken first to the provincial capital house and then removed to the infantry barracks for detention.

WROTE RESIGNATION
He asked immediately for a bed and after conversing for a few minutes with the officers present wrote a brief resignation and handed it to the commander of the 7th Infantry, Lieut.-Col. Yruza. The resignation read:

"To the officials of the army:
"In the city of La Plata on the seventh day of September, 1930 (it was shortly after midnight when he signed the resignation), I, Hipolito Irigoyen, constitutional President of the republic, in view of what has occurred to-day present my resignation as President.
(Signed) "Hipolito Irigoyen."

MARTINEZ OUSTED
The less dramatic was the resignation of the former vice-president, Dr. Enrique V. Martinez, who was President for a day after Irigoyen had "retired" under a constitutional provision on Friday night.

When General Uriburu arrived at Government House Saturday evening after the revolutionary troops had taken over the city, he encountered Martinez in the presidential office, informed him that the revolution was a complete success and demanded his resignation.

Martinez refused.
"You may kill me, but I will not resign," he asserted.
"I am not simple enough to make a martyr of you," replied the revolt leader. "But your resignation is necessary to prevent bloodshed. Resign or you will be imprisoned."

In a few moments Martinez capitulated and signed the resignation.

FURNITURE BURNED
Enthusiastic crowds swarmed gleefully through Buenos Ayres all Saturday night after the exciting change in government.

One group went to Irigoyen's house and removed all furniture to the street, then piling it up and burning it. The houses of former Foreign Minister Oyhantarte and of other Irigoyenist leaders also were ransacked.

Other groups raided the offices of the executive committee of the Radical party—the Irigoyenist faction—and also tore up the quarters of all Radical political clubs.

CAFE DEMOLISHED
Hot-blooded youths, mostly students, attacked the cafe Molino, which had sheltered a group of Irigoyenists who had opened fire on the revolutionary troops in the Plaza Congreso Friday night, and demolished it.

Then they visited the central police station, carrying banners and singing the national anthem. Behind them trailed a bust of the fallen President. Other places destroyed by infuriated moths were the offices of the newspapers La Esposa and La Calle. Irigoyen organs. These were burned while the city firemen, loyal to revolt movement, refused to fight the flames. The attack on La Esposa was made after persons in the building had fired on the advancing revolutionary troops.

The soldiers soon silenced their assailants with machine guns and shot down the crowd rushed at the building to destroy it.

GOVERNORS NAMED
When the provisional cabinet was organized Saturday night and one of its acts was dissolution of the Congress and proclamation of martial law. Yesterday it appointed army and navy officers to govern the various provinces pending eventual return of the country to civilian government. The governors chosen for seven of the fourteen provinces are as follows:

Buenos Ayres province—Col. Giordano.
Cordoba—General Pertine.
San Juan—Colonel Cuello.
Mendoza—Colonel La Foresta.
July—Commander Bueyro.
Corrientes—Commander Loreda.
Santa Fe—Commander Marquez.

LIPTON'S CHALLENGES—NO. 3

Superior Seamanship of America's Cup Defenders Vanquished Third Shamrock

With proper handling in the America's Cup races of 1903, the slim little Shamrock III, shown head-on at the left, might have beaten the Reliance, right, despite the latter's great spread of sail. The American defender carried 16,160 square feet of canvas, 1,000 feet more than Shamrock. Their over-all lengths were 143 feet 8 inches and 134 feet 4 inches, so Shamrock was allowed a time handicap.

After Sir Thomas Lipton's second attempt to wrest the America's Cup from the New York Yacht Club, he waited to allow any other foreign yachtsmen a chance to challenge. When none came forward, he issued his own challenge for the races of 1903 and sent along a personal letter of apology for his persistence, hoping that he "might not be deemed unduly covetous of the precious trophy."

That spirit of sportsmanship endeared the Irish merchant to the hearts of American sportsmen, many of whom already felt that international racing would benefit by a Lipton victory. Terms of the match were speedily arranged and designers were set to work on new yachts.

When Shamrock III, which had been built in great secrecy, was brought to this country, it was seen that Lipton's architect, William Fife, had turned out a beautifully modeled boat, in spite of some extreme features. Very narrow, and with long ends above the water line, she still was less radical in design than the American defender, Reliance.

The "Wizard of Bristol," Herreshoff, with carte blanche from the syndicate headed by Cornelius Vanderbilt, had planned a flat, almost saucer-like craft with an unusually deep keel. On this he had piled more canvas than yachtsmen ever had seen supported by a single mast. Reliance carried 16,160 square feet of sail.

Both boats seemed to be in splendid shape, but the races were disappointing. On the first day, with a beat of fifteen miles to windward and return, Reliance won by 7 minutes and 3 seconds, corrected time. The second race, over a triangular course, was more exciting, but Shamrock lost by more than a minute.

Lipton's entry undoubtedly had been handicapped by bad handling in the first two heats, but Reliance proved herself a superior boat in the third race by gaining 11 minutes on Shamrock at the half-way point. The finish was a dismal one, however, for a heavy fog rolled in. Shamrock got off her course and did not even finish. Reliance having won three of the five races, the series of 1903 was over.

EARTH SHOCKS IN SOUTH ITALY CAUSE ALARM

Region of Town of Gandela
Shaken; No Damage Is Reported

Gandela, Foggia, Italy, Sept. 8.—Strong earth shocks of six seconds' duration were felt here a few minutes before midnight. They were preceded by loud rumblings which terrorized the people. No damage was caused, but houses weakened by the July quake were endangered anew.

Gandela is in the province of Foggia, twenty-two miles south of the city of that name. It is in the heart of the earthquake zone in which in July more than 1,000 persons were killed when scores of towns were wiped out. It has a population of about 5,000.

Experts Blame Food Excesses For Diabetes Increase

The disease, diabetes, is on the increase in spite of the many lives saved by insulin, says Science Service. And the unprecedented prevalence of this metabolic disorder is attributed by experts of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company to "the dietary excesses practiced by the modern people."

In 1927, shortly after the wide use of insulin became established, medical statisticians were surprised to find an increase in the diabetes death rate. There was a further rise in 1928 and now 1929 bids fair to reach the highest figure ever recorded. The death rate for the first three months of this year, 23.8 per 100,000, was the highest ever recorded among the industrial policyholders of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, a group widespread throughout the United States and comprising a considerable percentage of the total population. The large increase was due in part to a wide prevalence of influenza and pneumonia which hastened the deaths of a number of diabetics. But apart from such deaths there has been a large increase in the death rate from diabetes.

Disconcerting as it may seem to the public, physicians and public health workers to find an increase in diabetes following upon the discovery and use of insulin, the experts of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company in interpreting the statistics declare that but for the increasing use of insulin the death rate would be still higher. The fundamental cause of diabetes is unknown. Some change in the pancreas occurs which reduces its output of a secretion which transforms sugar into a form useful for energy and muscle building. Why the pancreas fails in some cases to produce a sufficient amount of this ferment is not known, but the resulting condition is diabetes. Insulin, derived from the pancreas of animals, has this power of converting sugar into usable form. It supplements the reduced amount of pancreatic secretion of the diabetic, but it does not change the diseased condition of the pancreas itself. It is a treatment but not a cure and not a preventive. It does, however, enable the patient suffering from diabetes to live out his allotted span of life, usually in a fair state of health and comfort.

The use of insulin has increased, a study of fatal cases showed. According to information obtained from physicians, insulin was given in over half the cases, or 63 per cent of the 1,044 for which data were received; but of these 46 per cent were given insulin during the last month before death. The deaths from diabetic coma are showing a small but encouraging decrease, which also testifies to the increasing use of insulin. Patients suffering with diabetes are living to a more advanced age, as shown by the more frequent occurrences at or before death of heart, kidney and circulatory diseases. This is further evidence of the improvement of the treatment of diabetics with insulin.

Two More Records Fall Before Helen Madison

Seattle Girl Cuts Over Ten Seconds From 300-metre Mark

Breaks Record of Martha Norelius, New York, by Swimming Distance in Four Minutes Eight Seconds; Also Shatters 200-metre Record; Finishes Fifteen Yards Ahead in Latter Event; Austin Clapp Wins Men's Championship.

San Francisco, Sept. 8.—Helen Madison, sensational Seattle seventeen-year-old swimmer, bettered two records yesterday in the closing events of the Far West swimming championships under the auspices of the Pacific Association of the Amateur Athletic Union.

Miss Madison, who holds all of the women's freestyle records, bettered the mark in the 200-metre event over the long course, with a time of 2 minutes 36 4-10 seconds. The previous low mark, an unofficial one, was 2 minutes 41 4-10 seconds, held by Albina Ossipowich of Massachusetts.

MRS. PRESSLER GOLF CHAMPION

Defeats Mrs. Brent Potter 6 and 5 in Finals for Del Monte Title

Del Monte, Cal., Sept. 8.—Mrs. Leona Pressler of Hollywood stroked her way to an impressive victory over Mrs. Brent Potter of San Jose in yesterday's finals of the Del Monte golf championship for women, winning by a margin of 6 and 5.

Mrs. Pressler finished four under par and only one over men's par. She was out in men's par 37 to Mrs. Potter's 42, and might have scored even fewer strokes had she not missed her second shot on the sixth and her drive on the ninth. Mrs. Potter was approaching poorly and the defending champion had things her own way from the second hole on, after halving the first with a women's birdie four.

Later in an exhibition Miss Madison swam the 300 metre event in four minutes eight seconds, bettering the record held by Martha Norelius, New York, by ten and two-fifths seconds. The event was over the 100-metre course.

The Seattle swimmer easily outswam the field in the 200-metre event, leading Norelius, Los Angeles, competing unattached, by more than fifteen yards. Katherine Hartwell of the Western Women's Swimming Club, was third.

Austin Clapp, Hollywood Athletic Club, won the men's 400-metre freestyle championship in the good time of five minutes fourteen and six-tenths seconds, defeating Ted Wiget Jr., sixteen-year-old swimmer of the Oakland Athens Club by ten feet. Buster Olds, sixteen, unattached, was third.

HOLLYWOOD TEAM WINS
Clapp was also a member of the Hollywood 800-metre relay team which took that event in the time of ten minutes four and six-tenths seconds. Other members of the team were Duke Callaghan, Frank Booth and Frank Walton.

The Athens Club was second and the Olympic Club third.

Dorothy Poynton, Pasadena Athletic Club, won the ten-foot springboard diving championship, with Bernice Phelan, San Francisco, unattached, second and Elizabeth Kitching, Turlock Aquatic Club, third.

Louise Waugh, Lake Norconian Club, Los Angeles, won the final heat in the 100-metre free-style junior women's event in one minute sixteen and two-tenths seconds. Babe Walton, of the same club, was second, and Ruth McGovern, San Francisco, third.

William Haslam, Santa Maria Athletic Club, took the 200-metre breast stroke for men in three minutes four and six-tenths seconds. Henry Kell, Olympic Club, was second and George Corson, Athens Club, third.

Frank Kurtz, Hollywood Athletic Club, won the men's fancy high platform diving competition, with Edward Trondson, formerly of Stanford University, but swimming for the Olympic club, was second, and William Knowles, Hollywood Athletic Club, third.

Turning in a gross score of eighty-nine, which his handicap of eighteen lowered to seventy-one, John Craig won the Rotary Club's golf tournament at the Colwood course last week, with T. O. MacKay and Ed. Tomlin runner up with net seventy-four.

MacKay turned in the best gross score in the tourney, finishing with a total of eighty-six. The prize for the net score runner-up was awarded to Mr. Tomlin. Trailing along at the end of the thirty entries, Dr. V. F. Smith gained the booby prize with a gross 126.

J. Angus showed the way in the long driving contest, winning with a mark of 216 yards. Eight yards behind him finished Bill Wilson, who took second honors.

CRAIG WINS ROTARY GOLF

Turns in Net 71 to Lead Field of Thirty; T. O. MacKay Has Best Gross Score

Turning in a gross score of eighty-nine, which his handicap of eighteen lowered to seventy-one, John Craig won the Rotary Club's golf tournament at the Colwood course last week, with T. O. MacKay and Ed. Tomlin runner up with net seventy-four.

MacKay turned in the best gross score in the tourney, finishing with a total of eighty-six. The prize for the net score runner-up was awarded to Mr. Tomlin. Trailing along at the end of the thirty entries, Dr. V. F. Smith gained the booby prize with a gross 126.

J. Angus showed the way in the long driving contest, winning with a mark of 216 yards. Eight yards behind him finished Bill Wilson, who took second honors.

In the putting contest, Walter Terry captured the laurels, completing the nine holes in fifteen strokes. Bob Bremchley finished second with seventeen.

Match of the success of the tournament was due to the untiring work of Alex Marling, professional at the Colwood Club, who assisted in drawing up the handicaps and made other arrangements for the contest.

Hauser Hits His Sixtieth Homer To Equal Ruth's Mark

Baltimore, Sept. 8.—Joe Hauser, first baseman of the Baltimore Orioles of the International League, yesterday drove out his sixtieth home run of the season and equalled the world record chalked up in 1927 by Babe Ruth of the New York Yankees. The blow came in the fifth inning of the first game of a double bill with Jersey City. The bases were empty and no one was out.

U.S. Polo Four Come From Behind To Beat British

Americans Score 10 to 5 Victory in First Game in Defence of International Cup; Pedley Stars With Four Goals for Winners; British Players Gain Early Lead, But Fall Down Towards End of Match; British Players Injured.

Westbury, N.Y., Sept. 8.—Great Britain's four must win Wednesday's international polo tilt to stay in the series after being beaten on Saturday 10 to 5 by the United States.

The British lost out in the final stages of the match after taking an early lead in the first two chukkers. The British led 2 to 1 at the end of the first period, but at the end of the third chukker the score stood at 3 to 3.

In the third period Earle A. S. Hopping tallied the goal which put the United States in the lead at 4 to 3, and in the fourth Eric Pedley hammered another one in, making 10-3 for the United States at half time.

In the fifth period each side scored once, Lewis L. Lacey and Hopping being responsible for the tallies, bringing the score to 6 to 4. Lacey scored again after a 200-yard gallop, but was unable to repeat the effort, and the British were blanked for the remainder of the game.

JINX PURSUES BRITISH
The jinx which had pursued the British prior to the game, robbing them of three players, persisted during the match when Baldwin and Roark were slightly hurt. Baldwin was thrown when his pony stumbled in the third period, and Roark was painfully injured during the last chukker, when he was hit by the ball.

Lacey, famed Anglo-Argentine, was the outstanding figure for the invaders. He gave Hitchcock all kinds of trouble and scored three of the five British goals.

Saturday's victory was the seventh for the United States in a row over Britain in cup competition since 1921. Great Britain's last victory was scored in 1914, when her team won the cup in straight matches.

Tommy Hitchcock and Winton Guest, back, played great defensive polo, but it remained for Pedley and Hopping to capture a major share of the laurels from the U.S. standpoint. Pedley scored five goals, while Hopping contributed three.

The opposing lineups were:
U.S.—No. 1, Eric Pedley; No. 2, Earle A. S. Hopping; No. 3, Thomas Hitchcock; J. back, Winton Guest.
Great Britain—No. 1, Gerald Baldwin; No. 2, Lewis L. Lacey; No. 3, Capt. O. T. I. Roark; back, Guinness.

1930 World Baseball Series Opens Oct. 1

Chicago, Sept. 5.—The 1930 world series will open October 1 in the park of the team winning the American League pennant, probably Philadelphia, it was decided at a conference with Baseball Commissioner Landis to-day.

Games one and two will be played at the home of the American League champions, with number three, four and five in the National League champions' park. If sixth and seventh games are necessary they will be played in the American League winners' park.

ARMADALE AND C.P.R. TEAMS REACH FINALS

Score Victories Over J.B.A.A. and Kingston St. in League Tennis Matches

Armadale Defeat Kingston Players by One-sided Score; Play-offs to Start

C.P.R. and Armadale Tennis Clubs yesterday reached the finals of the third division of the Vancouver Island Tennis League by defeating the J.B.A.A. and Kingston Street Tennis Clubs, respectively. C.P.R. and J.B.A.A. playing off their tie in the second section played at Victoria on neutral courts. C.P.R. won from the rowing club representatives fourteen matches to ten in one of the best played matches of schedule. Armadale won from Kingston Street twenty-one matches to three for a one-sided victory. They have qualified to meet Duncan to determine the third team in the play-offs.

Four victories in the women's doubles started the C.P.R. team along the winning route while they held the J.B.A.A. men even in their doubles. Each team won three matches. Seven out of twelve mixed victories made victory certain for C.P.R. Their record for the season in the league was five wins and one defeat.

Armadale showed that they were quite at home on the hard courts at Kingston Street by trouncing the home club's players easily. Kingston Street annexed but one women's doubles and two mixed doubles victories were quite decisive.

The scores in C.P.R.-J.B.A.A. match with the C.P.R. players being first named follow:

WOMEN'S DOUBLES
Mrs. C. Moss and Miss G. Sluggett beat Mrs. W. Erickson and Miss M. Phillipsen, 7-6.

Singer Will Have A Bad Handful In Slugging McLarnin

With About Seven Pounds Advantage Vancouver Welterweight Will Be Dangerous Opponent in Bout Next Thursday Night at Yankee Stadium; Joe Dundee, Former Welterweight Champion, Appearing in Preliminaries; Primo Carnera Meets Boston Heavyweight To-night.

New York, Sept. 8.—Boxing's faithful get an opportunity to watch Al Singer in the ring this week for the first time since he won the lightweight title from Sammy Mandell, but the Bronx idol will leave his crown a home in cold storage.

Singer meets Jimmy McLarnin, smiling Celt from Vancouver, B.C., in a ten-round bout in the Yankee Stadium Thursday night at 142 pounds, seven pounds over the lightweight limit.

Singer himself probably will scale no more than 135 pounds, and this will concede about seven pounds to one of the hardest punchers in the ring, irrespective of weight.

As a matter of fact, experts have been wondering just why Singer's handlers signed for the mainland show. McLarnin, a deadly puncher with either hand, has not been beaten since he took a trouncing in fifteen rounds from Sammy Mandell, the then lightweight titleholder, here two years ago. As a welterweight he has yet to meet defeat. Singer will risk nothing more than his reputation, but it seems to some observers he is taking a terrible chance in mixing with McLarnin a few weeks before his championship bout with Tony Canzoneri.

Joe Dundee of Baltimore, former welterweight champion, battles Ben Jey, New York, in an eight-rounder on the same card. Armando Aguilar, Chile, and Lew Paluso, New York, and Nel Turleton, England, and Jimmy Slavin, New York, are to meet in other eight-rounders.

Chicago and Newark offer the only other attractions of widespread interest. At the Chicago Stadium Thursday night, Billy Petrolle vs. Tony Canzoneri, New York lightweight, in the feature ten-rounder of a benefit show for Patricia Harmon, daughter of the late Paddy Harmon. Leo Lomski, Aberdeen, Wash., light heavyweight, takes on King Levinsky of Chicago, in another ten-rounder, and Ernie Peters and Harry Fierro, Chicago, bantams, clash in an eight-rounder.

At Newark to-night Primo Carnera will try to add another knockout victory to his long string of a ten-rounder with Pat McCarthy of Boston at the Velodrome.

Juvenile Soccer Association Is To Meet September 11

The annual general meeting of the Lower Mainland Football Association, held September 5, was adjourned until Thursday, September 11, when the election of officers will be held.

At this adjourned meeting entries will be taken for the three divisions of the league.

All interested are asked to attend, especially men who are willing to act as referees for the youngsters in the coming season.

This meeting will be held at the Y.M.C.A. at 7:30 o'clock.

Are Your Eyes Civilized?

Civilization is that state of society which results from human progress and invention. Progress and invention impose ever-increasing demands on our eyes, and our eyes have not kept pace with these rapid changes. The assistance of spectacles, therefore, becomes more necessary with the years. Were glasses taken from us, civilization would assuredly go backwards. Have us examine your eyesight conditions and assist your eyes to cope with the insistent demands of modern life.

YOUR CHILDREN

By OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

Although there are still cases of carelessness, the work of the Board of Public Health shows increasing results of its education of how to stop the spreading of disease among the members of the family. Children with colds are kept home from school now, where "bundling them up" used to be considered sufficient. Doctors are called at the first sign of a temperature, and the sick members of the family are segregated.

But new methods constantly supplant the old ones. One of the most confusing changes is in purifying the house after contagious illnesses. And I wonder if a great many mothers are not completely at sea about the new way of disinfection.

Everyone who remembers contagious disease in the family before eight or ten years ago knows the ceremony gone through before contact of the unfortunate household with the rest of the world was permitted. When the quarantine was lifted, the health board fairly tore the house to pieces in their zeal to disinfect us—with the family as willing helpers. We wanted that feeling of safety and purity for our friends as well as for ourselves.

TO BE DOUBLY SAFE

I remember one time when after a particularly serious case I bought a new set of disinfecting lamps after they were through, and fumigated the house all over again. Everything that would stand scrubbing with soap and water or an antiseptic solution was scrubbed and everything movable was sunned in the yard or burned.

To-day emancipation of fumigation, has evidently accompanied the emancipation of most other things. After a recent case of contagious illness in my home, I was told by the health board that disinfecting by one old method was neither compulsory nor necessary. We could do it if we wished.

CARTOONIST'S WIFE SUES ACTRESS

Playwriting was literally a labor of love for comely Constance Collier, right, and Bruce Bairnsfather, noted English cartoonist and dramatist, according to a suit for $100,000 damages filed against the English actress in New York by Mrs. Bairnsfather, left. The complaint charges that Miss Collier, while engaged in collaborating with Bairnsfather on a new play, "maliciously enticed" the playwright away from his wife. Bairnsfather is famous for his war cartoons of "Alf" and "Old Bill" and his war play, "The Better Ole."

Mrs. Eldred will be glad to answer all questions pertaining to babies and children's ailments and self-addressed envelopes forwarded to this office will bring a personal reply.

MONOTONOUS INACTIVITY IMPOSSIBLE FOR ANY HEALTHY CHILD

What parents expect of their children often appalls us. It is so natural for them to say, "Now be quiet," and then become annoyed to the point of chastisement when the child can't carry out the command.

Unless sick or asleep, children cannot be quiet—really motionless—for much more than two or three minutes at a time. They jump from one game to another, piling blocks at one moment, poring sand through a sieve at the next, and rushing down the street with their wagons piled high with junk at another. The concentration on any one activity which the mother deems impossible before school days, and sometimes after that. The wriggles and scuffings of feet that one hears in every school room are the children's means of getting the itch of inactivity out of their legs. The wise teacher changes occupations and positions when it becomes pronounced.

CRUEL TREATMENT

Parents who understand children know that it is nothing short of cruelty to take a small child to church and expect him to sit still through the sermon, not one word of which is intelligible to him, or to a movie where he can neither move nor speak, since every word of the actors must be audible, to put a child in any panned-up place to "be good" and be a good girl, unaware that to be good in any restricted place is as impossible for her as to grow wings and fly.

In the disease condition called obesity, the human being stores up surplus material taken in the form of food instead of eliminating it so as to maintain the body weight at normal for the particular age and height.

People who eat too much, exercise too little, and who eat particularly large amounts of rich foods are bound to put on weight. Children in such families acquire the bad habits from their parents, and the tendency to overweight becomes established. People in desk jobs tend to overweight. MAY PERPETUATE ITSELF

Due to constant pressure on the regulating mechanism, it may break down after a certain amount of time and thus establish a vicious circle.

There is a considerable number of people whose glands are disordered in some fashion so as to interfere greatly with their regulation of body weight. Just as there are thin people who eat tremendous quantities of food and still remain thin, so also there are fat people who eat very small quantities of food and continue to put on weight. This form of obesity is not understood. There is some abnormality in the mechanism of the person's body which forces him to store up fat.

Some Chicago investigators observed that the metabolic rates in these people were constant. They also showed that the obese person has a completely disordered mechanism so far as concerns the handling of various types of food, such as protein, carbohydrates and fat in his body.

It has long been recognized that overweight is dangerous to health and to life. The life expectancy of people who are overweight is shorter than that of those who are normal or underweight. Such people have more difficulty in the activity of the heart, they tend to high blood pressure and their comfort is interfered with, they develop skin disturbances because of the itching between the folds of fat, and when they develop any inflammation or disease of the lungs they have difficulty in recovering. Such people do not take anesthetics well and are considered high surgical risks.

One of the first attempts made by a scientific investigator when confronted with the care of a case of obesity is to find out exactly the type of obesity from which the person suffers. It is necessary for him to study the family history and to know whether or not other people in the family suffer in the same way. He has to look into the family habits, particularly the diet, and to carry out tests of the rate at which the body consumes its food and digests it. He tests the activity of the various glands and he attempts to estimate for the particular person what might be called the ideal weight for health.

Various formulas have been estimated as to what is the ideal weight. One formula says that the normal weight in kilograms equals the height in cubic centimeters minus 100. A kilogram is 2,200 grams, and a pound is 450 grams. An inch is equal to 2.54 centimeters. A man who is seventy cubic centimeters tall, or five feet seven inches, should weigh 170 minus 100 kilograms, or seventy kilograms, which is about 154 pounds. LIFE INSURANCE FIGURES

It is possible in this way for anyone to estimate what should be his normal weight. Such averages are based on the examination of tremendous numbers of people who have applied for life insurance. As a result of these

THOUSANDS ON PILGRIMAGE TO SHRINE TO-DAY

Picturesque Procession at Loreto, Italy, to Celebrate Nativity of Virgin

Loreto, Italy, Sept. 8.—All to-day through the main street of this picturesque little town, poles on the heights with the green Adriatic below, passed a procession to the sanctuary of the "Holy House of Nazareth," also known as the "Flying House," to celebrate the Nativity of the Blessed Virgin. For over 800 years the great and the lowly, from kings and crusaders to beggars, have trod the road up to the shrine, bearing their gifts.

The procession to-day included a number of aviators, for "Our Lady of Loreto" was proclaimed their protectress by the late Pope. Many of the American touring motorists and their families, and peasants clad in the vivid costumes of the Abruzzi and the marches. Many came into town on foot, priests, students, old men and women, grandmothers leading broods of their latest born in baskets balanced on their heads.

The "Holy House of Nazareth," according to legend, was the very one in which the blessed Virgin was born and raised, where she received the visit of the annunciation, and where she resided after Christ's ascension. The apostles are supposed to have converted it into a church at a later date. When Nazareth was threatened by the Turks the legend has it the house was borne miraculously through the air to a hill near Scutari, where a number of cups effected on visitors attested its sanctity. Later, when thieves and pirates infested the region, during the period of the Crusaders, it is said, transported the house to the Hill of Loreto and set it down among the laurel groves.

It is a tiny house, but encased by lofty marble screens designed by the great Bramante and executed by Andrea Bacciottino and Della Porta, under commission from the Pope. The screens represent the annunciation, the nativity of Christ, the arrival of the holy house at Loreto, and the nativity of the blessed virgin herself. Inside is a small statue of the madonnas and child, carved in black wood of Lebanon, and supposed to have been the work of St. Luke, the artist of the four evangelists.

All the pilgrims to-day carried candles, which they reverently added to the thousands already burning by the famous shrine.

examinations, physicians are inclined to accept as normal any deviations which do not exceed ten or fifteen per cent. When a person is fifteen per cent above the normal weight, as calculated by this method, he can be considered as overweight. Even then, however, it is necessary to take into account the racial type and the family type of person concerned.

When the mother came back she was furious, and she hit his bare legs with a stick and took him in the car and spanked him hard. She also said to him: "When your father gets you home he's going to spank you, too." Now how could children of this age sit still all during the afternoon, and why be punished because they couldn't and didn't?

There is no answer to that question. Parents who understand children and their capabilities couldn't do it, for they would never set an impossible task to a child. He has to carry it through. Sitting still is one thing which no adult has a right to expect of a young child. Moving about is as necessary as breathing.

Brentwood

Mrs. J. Carrier and Miss Madeline Sluggert were hostesses at a delightful shower, held at the home of Mrs. Carrier, Tod Inlet on Wednesday evening in honor of Miss Ruth Stewart, a popular bride-elect. The many gifts were placed in a linen basket, which was concealed by the voluminous skirts of a miniature bride. This was drawn into the reception room by Violet Hunter and Desmond Carrier to the strains of a wedding march. Games and contests formed the evening's entertainment, after which refreshments were served by the hostesses. The invited guests were, Mrs. R. J. Carrier, Mrs. J. Stewart, Mrs. J. Carrier, Mrs. M. F. Kelly, Mrs. R. J. Farrell, Mrs. M. Evans, Mrs. L. Thompson, Mrs. J. Johnston, Mrs. C. H. Butler, Mrs. L.

H. B. WARNER IS FEATURED AT DOMINION

Realistic and Modern Hit Is Played by Splendid Cast of Popular Stars

With an interesting and thrilling plot and a cast of exceptional ability, "Wild Company," Fox Movietone all-talking emotional and romantic drama, has opened its long-anticipated engagement at the Dominion Theatre to-day. The run is for three days. Frank Albertson and H. B. Warner divide the male honors, appearing as father and son. Sharon Lynn portrays the leading feminine role.

The story is that of a modern youth who becomes involved in a robbery and a murder after he has been intrigued by a beautiful but mendacious night club entertainer, the character assumed by Miss Lynn. The boy, a victim of circumstance, is tried and convicted, but a merciful judge finds a way of permitting him to escape a prison sentence.

Warner gives one of his characteristically splendid performances, and is particularly effective in the court-room scene, where he pleads for his son and attempts to take the blame of the crime. As the wife and mother, Claire McDowell is splendidly cast. Kenneth Thomson is convincing in his role of the racketeer who "frames" the boy to shield himself.

Joyce Compton gives an excellent portrayal of the carefree modern girl. Richard Keene, Frances McCoy, Bela Lugosi, Bobby Callahan, and Van Dorn and George Fawcett make up the balance of the cast, and each gives a good performance.

While the picture is one of dramatic intensity, it is not without comedy, in which both Albertson and Warner skillfully handle some highly humorous situations.

The picture was directed by Leo McCarey, his first effort for Fox Movietone, and a most satisfactory one.

Have Leading Roles in "Vengeance"

An interesting story, well acted and staged with careful attention to detail, was flashed on the screen of the Playhouse Theatre to-day. It is "Vengeance," Columbia Pictures all-talking drama of the Congo with Jack Holt, Dorothy Revier and William H. Mason. The picture is a story of a man who is brought to the Congo on the stage in England and on Broadway.

It is seen in "The Vagabond King" as a penniless, weak-willed monarch who is confronted with the ill of government which were so rife in the dark ages in which the action of the picture takes place. He allows Dennis King, as Francois Villon, rowdy-poet to become king of France for a week. The manner in which King leads the vagabond rabble against the king's enemies, the Burgundians, and then lays himself open to death on the gibbet provides such screen excitement as few producers have been able to stir up in many a long day. Paramount has turned out this thrilling gem of song, romance and action in a manner which takes the breath away.

"Vagabond King,"

With Dennis King,

At The Coliseum

Powerful Story of France at Time of Revolution Is Feature Picture

O. P. Heggie wears the royal purple as King Louis XI of France in Paramount's all-talking and singing production of the glamorous romance "The Vagabond King," starring Dennis King at the Coliseum Theatre to-day.

Heggie has gained thousands of new friends among the talking screen fans since he deserted the stage about a year ago for a career in the medium of the new show world. He is remembered as the lawyer in the late Jeanette MacDonald's picture, "The Letter." He was the genius of Scotland Yard in "The Mysterious Dr. Fu Manchu." He was the affable mayor in George Bancroft's "The Mighty."

In the colorful "The Vagabond King" Heggie gives a portrayal of an historically authentic character—the type of man who brought him greatest fame on the stage in England and on Broadway.

It is seen in "The Vagabond King" as a penniless, weak-willed monarch who is confronted with the ill of government which were so rife in the dark ages in which the action of the picture takes place. He allows Dennis King, as Francois Villon, rowdy-poet to become king of France for a week. HELEN IN MOVIES IN SPITE OF PAPA

George M. Cohan's Daughter Wins Lead in Films

The famous New York theatrical family of Cohan is going to crash the silver gates of Hollywood whether Papa wants to or not. Helen Cohan, shown here, 19-year-old daughter of George M. Cohan, has just been awarded her first leading part in a movie in spite of the objections of her dad. "Daddy probably will be scandalized," Helen said. "He lives up to the older traditions of the stage. But I'm going to make my own way. And that's that."

Reports Pope Gravely Ill Are Proved Unfounded

Vatican City, Sept. 8.—Pope Pius XI, who has been reported gravely ill, is now reported to be in good health. The reports of his illness were proved unfounded.

It was even more than normal, for he began with a lengthy audience to Monsignor Borgognini, papal nuncio to the Kingdom of Italy, to discuss matters such as the Argentine revolution, the nomination of a successor to the late Cardinal Gamba as Archbishop of Turin, and relief for the churches stricken in the recent earthquake.

After lunch and a siesta, the Pontiff took an automobile ride in the vatican gardens from 5.30 to 6.30 p.m., thus avoiding the heat of the day and following medical advice to conserve his health.

Portugal's seventeenth census is to be taken shortly. It is expected that the population will reach 6,800,000.

MILTON SILLS STARRING AT THE CAPITOL

Popular Actor Has Leading Role in "Man Trouble" Here for Three Days

One of the most human, one of the best directed and capably acted, as well as intensely interesting all-talking pictures, has been produced by Fox Movietone in "Man Trouble," which opened its local engagement at the Capitol Theatre to-day.

It has been described as a romantic drama, but it is more than that; it is, in many respects, a thriller, abounding in powerful dramatic situations.

Dorothy Mackaill, beautiful, as well as talented, portrays the leading feminine role and her characterization again stamps her as an actress of rare artistry and understanding.

Milton Sills, ever a favorite with screen devotees, gives one of his best efforts as the hard-boiled night club owner, a character that suits his splendid ability to perfection. Kenneth MacKenna, as the newspaper columnist, enacts his role with his usual skill and finish.

The cast must have been selected with more than ordinary care, as it is one of the best of the kind. It includes, in addition to the stars mentioned, Edith Chapman and Harvey Clark, all do splendid work.

The story concerns the misadventures of a beautiful girl and a romantic youth who fall in love but find themselves separated by the intrigues of a night club owner who dominates the girl, his claim upon her being based on the fact that he saved her life when she attempted to drown herself. Fate and circumstance, however, come to her rescue and the girl and her lover embrace happiness together.

PREMIER TO OPEN FAIR AT LUXTON

Annual Fall Exhibition of Metchoshin Farmers' Institute Set for Wednesday

Premier Tolmie has consented to open the fall fair and exhibition of the Metchoshin Farmers' Institute scheduled for Wednesday, September 10, in the hall at Luxton.

Hon. R. H. Pooley, Attorney-General, and Hon. William Cough of Saanich will also be in attendance.

Scotch dancing will be a popular item of the fair programme. Many entries have been received from well-known amateur dancers from Vancouver and Island. Additional entries are being received daily.

A well constructed platform is being placed in position to accommodate the dancers.

An exceptionally fine entry list of field crops and garden vegetables are already on record, the quality of which has not been surpassed in this district in previous years.

Livestock, particularly sheep, will be strongly represented, as the Metchoshin Sheep Breeders' Association, in conjunction with the Metchoshin Farmers' Institute, are using every effort in order that the excellence of their various breeds of sheep may be made known to flockmasters throughout Canada and the United States.

In the poultry section the entries received have necessitated the enlarging of the space originally allotted to it.

Through the offices of the Minister of the Department of Agriculture the following judges have been appointed as officials:

Fruit, vegetables and field crops—E. D. White, District Horticulturist.

Cattle and sheep—Wm. Gilbert Murrayville.

Poultry—James Allan, poultry instructor, New Westminster.

Domestic science and women's work—Mrs. T. W. Martindale, Nanaimo.

CHILDREN'S SPORTS

L. B. Matthews, principal of the Happy Valley School, is chairman of the committee in charge of the children's sports programme, as follows:

Boys' open, girls' open, 100 yards.

Girls, 12 to 15, boys 12 to 15, 75 yards.

Girls 8 to 11, boys 8 to 11, 75 yards.

Girls 7 and under, 25 yards.

Boys 7 and under, 25 yards.

Girls under 6, boys under 6, 25 yards.

Thread the needle, girls.

Back race, boys.

High jump, senior girls and boys, 12 and over.

High jump, junior girls and boys, under 12.

Children attending Langford, Colwood, Albert Head, Metchoshin, Happy Valley, Rocky Point, East Sooke and Sooke schools are eligible to enter the events.

ONTARIO GAINS IN ITS BATTLE AGAINST DISEASE

Toronto, Sept. 8.—Despite the fact 188 cases of infantile paralysis were reported throughout Ontario between July 1 and August 30, a total of eighty more than were reported during the corresponding period of 1929, the situation is not alarming, according to Hon. Forbes Godfrey, Provincial Minister of Health.

In a general statement on the situation, Dr. Godfrey says that while seventeen deaths occurred, compared with eighteen deaths during the same period last year, the general public is better informed with respect to premonitory symptoms and early indications of the disease, with the result physicians are being called at stage of the disease sufficiently early to administer the serum and get good results.

Writing Scenarios Often Studio's Hardest Job

Howard Estabrook at work on the scenario of "Cimarron."

By DAN THOMAS

One of the most important and difficult tasks in the making of a motion picture is the preparation of the script.

Yet, being among the unseen powers behind a film, the men responsible for this important piece of work seldom gain much in the way of praise or glory. Few members of the audience realize that the scenario is directly responsible for what they see on the screen. Nevertheless, such is the case. Whether a picture is good, bad or mediocre depends first of all upon its scenario.

An idea of the tremendous task heaped upon the shoulders of a scenario writer was given me a few days ago by Howard Estabrook, who has just completed the adaptation of Edna Ferber's novel, "Cimarron," which is about to go into production, with Richard Dix in the starring role.

"The biggest difficulty I had in adapting 'Cimarron' was in keeping it short," Estabrook declared. "It would take the average person anywhere from seven to ten evenings to read the book. Yet we have to show the whole story on the screen in about an hour and forty-five minutes. Of course, it would have been an easy matter to have eliminated a number of sequences, but that would have ruined the story.

"Consequently I wrote a complete scenario of the entire book and then started the process of shortening it by cutting out certain unimportant scenes, combining others and covering still others with a few lines of explanatory dialogue. I even combined some of the characters. There also are pages and pages of editorial narration in the novel which had to be transcribed into action which had to be photographed and into dialogue."

Perhaps the most tedious portion of Estabrook's job was the tremendous amount of research work he had to do before writing his script. His office is completely filled with books devoted to the early Oklahoma days, as well as magazines dating back to 1889 containing articles pertaining to Oklahoma at that time. All of them had to be carefully perused in order to make sure that everything in the picture is historically authentic.

While we have dealt almost entirely with the script of "Cimarron" in this story, all of the facts true for practically every other picture. Novels and plays which are adapted for the screen have to be handled carefully. They can't be hacked to pieces in a haphazard fashion or their value is lost.

Naturally, scenarios aren't always written as carefully as they should be. In fact, they often have to be changed after the picture has gone into production and very often they are written as the film progresses. However, such mistakes are easily discernable on the screen and are the principal cause of so many poor films.

In the old days it didn't matter quite as much, as a good set of titles would go a long way toward saving an otherwise poor picture. But now that the characters speak their own lines, they have to be right the first time as there is no chance to change them.

ISLAND COAL IS GOOD COAL

INTRODUCING MR. "B.T.U."

... and the reason why ISLAND Coal is GOOD Coal

As a prominent Canadian fuel engineer says: "There are almost as many kinds of coal as there are varieties of pickles." To most people coal is just "coal." They know it as the stuff that is put in fire grates—but that's about all.

The first requisite of coal is heat... and this is why Island Coal is such good coal.

Chemical experiments with three kinds of Island coal showed an average of 13,030 B.T.U.'s (heat units) as against several non-Island, competing grades, which only averaged 10,000.

It's the B.T.U.'s that count! It pays to remember that when you buy Island coal you get a greater amount of HEAT. Experiments showed that the moisture content of Island Coal at pit head averages only 1.37%, where non-Island grades showed 15.43%. Again, the volatility (easy burning) of Island coal is 4.3% greater. In addition to its greater HEAT value, Island coal is the safest, most even, most adaptable fuel on this market... especially when governed by automatic control.

Remember, the Island coal business is a major industry of British Columbia; it maintains more than 30,000 people... nearly all of whom live on the Island or in Vancouver. Every ton of coal consumed means a day's work for a B.C. miner. Regular work means full pay and maintenance for the miner's family.

The dealers listed herewith all sell Nanaimo-Wellington and Comox coals. Buy home products! Every dollar for imported fuels that goes out of British Columbia is a dollar less at home!

SEATTLE GOES "VICTORIAN"

Writer in Seattle Times Describes Visit Here of Holiday-makers

The influx of Seattle-ites to Victoria for the Labor week-end has inspired the following amusing article by a social writer in the Seattle Sunday Times of yesterday's date, under the caption "Seattle Goes Victorian over End of the Week."

"Seattle went Victorian over the week-end; that is, it went to Victoria, which is a very different thing at all. In big boats, little boats, private or not so private, or in those sleek planes that arrive with such a nice whirr in the harbor in front of the Empress Hotel, while one lunched, Seattle went."

ANTIQUES AND LIQUOR
"The invasion. A rush of enthusiasts to the antique shops, accompanied by the usual husbandly reluctance; a rush of more enthusiasts to the government auction under the usual pall of wifely scepticism. Children taken to the Crystal Garden; Anne and Jack Douglas splashing in the water while Mr. Walter Douglas kept an eye on them from the balcony."

"Everyone wandering in for a seven o'clock dinner, with the sunset coming red through the tall windows framed in ivy. The Eldridge yacht party all together; Mr. and Mrs. Eldridge, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Douglas, Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Arnold, Mr. and Mrs. O. D. Fisher, Mr. Wesley Eldridge and Mr. James Douglas, Stewart Fraser dining alone; and in a corner by the window, of course, the inevitable old gentleman with exquisite withered hands and white hair like Queen Mary's and many jet necklaces over her boned collar."

LISTEN TO CONCERT
"In the lobby listening to the concert, the C. W. Stinsons and Mr. and Mrs. John Owsley. Mrs. Allen Trumble telling fortunes, and Russell Perkins walking about with his hat over his eyes; Jane Nettleton and Mrs. William Dennis Lucas of Olympia coming in through the conservatory, and Mrs. Charles Donworth waiting for her husband. And everyone, of course, so surprised to see everyone else."

"On Saturday and Sunday the harbor dotted with big and little yachts, bobbing ineluctably under the noses of the regular boats; little boys in rowboats doing a good business in 'C'n we have your empties, mister. And by Monday noon, nothing left but rather oily water and seagulls sitting on logs."

NO FALL SESSION, DECLARES POOLEY

Those interested in legislation they wish brought before the session of the B.C. Legislature are urged by Attorney-General Pooley to lay their proposals before the government, without delay.

"This, he said, was a precautionary measure to avoid the confusion and delay occasioned by last-minute requests for private enactments and to facilitate the business of the House when it meets. The government wished to have all such proposals put forward well in advance of the meeting of the Legislature, which, unless unforeseen circumstances develop, will occur next year."

"The government has no intention at the present time of hold a fall session, Mr. Pooley said."

Horse Yields to Tractor Power on Canadian Farms

A New Fordson Tractor Pulling a Three-Gang Plow in Heavy Ontario Wheat Land.

TRACTORS are slowly but steadily displacing horses on Canadian farms, according to surveys by government bureaus at Ottawa. The reason is that the power-driven vehicle has proved itself a profitable investment on the great majority of farms where it has been put to work. It has demonstrated it is capable of doing a large amount of work in a short time, of providing belt power when needed and of doing the same job in less time than horse-drawn equipment and at less cost.

The photograph shows a new Fordson tractor pulling a three-gang plow in heavy dry Ontario wheat land. The usual practice in the section where the test was conducted was the use of two plows because of the difficult nature of the soil, but the Fordson pulled the three-gang plow with ease, giving a practical demonstration of its power reserve.

Rose Symbolizes Human Emotions, Says Flower Lover

New York, Sept. 8.—Gay "Bobbie" Burns when he wrote that his "love was like a red, red rose," had nothing on Mrs. Elizabeth G. Britton, honorary curator of Mosses at the New York Botanical Garden.

The rose, declared Mrs. Britton in a statement, is a universal social force, symbolizing mankind's noblest impulses and assembling history's outstanding personalities in an international hall of fame. Patriotism, virtue, valor, heroism, heroism, royalty, race, religion, and even aviation and the movies, she pointed out, find expression in roses. She very nearly pointed out that the heroine of the most successful of all American dramas was an Irish Rose. Since Mrs. Britton is convinced that a dictionary of the rose language, if one is ever compiled, would constitute an enduring record of human emotion, kinship and achievement, she has come forward to urge its adoption as America's national flower. According to Mrs. Britton, roses of all colors and every description could be utilized to serve the purposes of patriotism. In cases of national emergency, instead of sending an ultimatum the Government could simply "say it with flowers."

Calling on the shade of Edward McDowell, composer of "To a Wild Rose," to express her feelings, Mrs. Britton named the following varieties of roses for Americans to choose from, in a statement as exquisitely fragrant as the flower so dear to her heart, and thornless:

Patriotic: America, Columbia, Independence Day, Francis Scott Key, George Washington, Freedom, Victory, Pershing, Marshal Foch, Lord Allenby, Earl Haig and Kitchener of Khartoum, Irish: Killarney, Killarney Queen, Irish Elegance, Irish Fireflame, Irish Glory, Ulster Gem and Tipperary. Aristocratic: King Albert, Queen Mary, Queen Alexandra, Duchess of Wellington, Mary Countess of Ilchester, Alice Lady Stanley, Lady Ashdown, Lady Hillingdon, Lady Godiva, Lady Ursula, Pope Pius XI and the Padre. Virtuous: Chastity, Courage, Constancy, Cheerful, Ideal, Dainty, Simplicity, Innocence, Felicity and Admiration. Heroic: Edith Cavell and Grace Molyneux. Literary: Jeanne Deans, Amy Robson, Julia Manning, Flora McIvor, Lord and Lady Penance, Modest: Mary Pickford, Mrs. Butterfield, Beale Chaplin, and Marmad. Mythological: Adonis, Ariadne, Ceres, Diana, Hera, Sybil, Venus, Ariel, Aladdin, Opheleia and Titania. Regional: Breridley, Cuba, My Maryland, Richmond, Indiana and Hoosier Beauty. Sentimental: Anne, Betty, Janet, Juliet, Christine, Isabel and Henrietta.

RAILROAD TRACKS ARE WASHED OUT

Sioux City, Iowa, Sept. 8.—Railroad tracks were washed out, farm buildings were destroyed, crops damaged and traffic was tied up by a wind, rain and hail storm that swept this vicinity yesterday.

Insurance adjusters set damage as high as $500,000. Of 500 farms near Sioux City, it was estimated 200 had suffered a seventy-five per cent loss of corn crops because of the storm.

Near Merrill, Iowa, fifty feet of Chicago and northwestern tracks were washed out several miles of trackage was inundated.

LAMPMAN EVENT

Italian Boy Thought Only of His Poetry

Lodovico, a little Italian boy, sat quite still and listened politely while his father scolded him, shaking his finger angrily. "And no more of this poetry!" he stormed. "Do you think I like to see you wasting your time? You are to be a lawyer, as I have told you many times. And yet you pay no attention to your studies in the law. Always reading poetry. I'll have no more of it!"

"Yes, father," said Lodovico meekly. Then he went out of the room, where his brothers and sisters were waiting, more terrified than he of the scolding he was receiving.

"Was he very cross?" they whispered. "Yes," said Lodovico. "I am going to write down exactly what he said. I am writing a play, all in poetry, and one of the characters is an angry father. Now I know just how he should talk, to be real!"

There was no keeping Lodovico from poetry. He became one of the greatest Italian poets. He was born 456 years ago to-day.

VANCOUVER WINS

SOFTBALL TITLE

BY 12-0 SCORE

Canadian Bakeries Hammer Out Victory By 12-0 Over Jokers

Vancover's Canadian Bakeries, champions of the Mainland Softball League, battered the Jokers, Victoria City titleholders, all over the lot to hang up a 12 to 0 victory in the final of the provincial title play-offs at the Royal Athletic Park Saturday afternoon.

The Vancouver boys took to Lloyd Jones's offerings like a duck takes to water at the beginning of the third inning and hammered out five runs. In the fourth they staged another rally to drive home five more runners. A few good hits and plenty of errors in Victoria's field gave the visitors their score.

In the ninth the Vancouver boys got two more runs, while the locals went scoreless.

Staley started both rallies, opening the first with a walk and the second with a single.

Vanhatten, Kennedy, Edwards and Staley each scored twice, while Little and Luscombe brought in the other two runs.

FITCHES WELL

Johnny Edwards, pitching for the Mainlanders, turned in a good game, while his teammates gave him good support.

Rob Whyte umpired and the teams lined up as follows:

NEWS IN BRIEF

The Zoning Board of Appeal will meet Thursday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock to consider rulings on zoning matters.

W. K. Hildley, former principal at the Willow School, Oak Bay, has accepted an appointment on the staff of the junior high school at Kamloops.

Reopening of the section of Douglas Street between Humboldt and Broughton Streets, will commence about September 11. It was announced by P. M. Preston, city engineer. The work was authorized at the last meeting of the council.

Action by the Department of Public Works to stop overloading of trucks traveling on certain highways is contemplated. Tests will be conducted on the road to determine if regulations in this regard are being adhered to and prosecutions will follow any violations of the loading rules, it is stated.

The Amalgamated Civil Servants of Canada will hold their usual monthly meeting to-night at the Law Chambers, commencing promptly at 8 o'clock. This will be the last meeting of the executive and the year's reports will be read. All delegates are requested to attend and visitors from outside points will be welcomed.

The Girls' Band of thirty-seven pieces will supply the music for the Rotary pageant rehearsal at the Chamber of Commerce to-night. All girls of the band are urged to attend. It is announced that this will be the last opportunity of new girls being taken on for the pageant, as after to-night no new girls will be accepted.

In Odd Fellows' Hall next Wednesday evening at 8:45 o'clock, Columbia Lodge No. 2, Independent Order of Odd Fellows, will be hosts to the Hudson's Bay Glee Club, which will entertain with a programme. Following this programme, to which the sisters of Columbia and Carle Rebekah Lodges are invited, there will be an informal dance.

Hon. R. Weir, Federal Minister of Agriculture, is requested in a wire sent by the Victoria Chamber of Commerce, to make the Experimental Station at Sidney a station for testing and inspecting imported samples of seed. The telegram suggests that the station is suitable, as the southern end of Vancouver Island is the centre of the seed and bulb growing industry of Canada on the Pacific Coast.

The Kumtiks Club held its first luncheon after the holiday season today at the Spencer. Miss Kate McLaren, the president, was in the chair. The attention of members was called to the special general meeting to be held on Monday evening, September 22, when consideration will be given to a motion to change the name of the club. In place of a speaker to-day, the members briefly reviewed their holidays.

To mark the closing of a career which has kept him for thirty-seven years in the service of the C.P.R., Thomas S. Wilson, roadmaster of the Esquimalt and Nanaimo Railway, who recently retired, was presented a few days ago with a club bag at a ceremony held at the local offices of the company. Mr. Wilson, who has been in the Island service alone for twenty-three years, was presented with the gift by R. A. Bainbridge.

Predictions of a 400,000,000-bushel crop on the prairies had tended to lend an optimistic view to the outlook of farmers and in Canada news of the crop was stated by J. A. Grant, markets representative of the Department of Agriculture, on his return to this city at the end of the week. The crop this year was expected to be 102 per cent of the usual crop, he stated. New tariff rulings regarding agricultural produce were being received favorably on the prairies, he stated.

OBITUARY

The death took place Sunday at Esquimalt of Benjamin Jack, a native of Esquimalt, who was a resident of Esquimalt for the last six years. There survive six sons, William of Hamilton, Ontario; Benjamin of Esquimalt; Robert of Calgary; Christopher of Nanaimo; George of Clonald, Alta.; and Prentice of Gould Station, Alta.; and one sister, Mrs. W. Hoggan of Esquimalt, Alta. The funeral will take place to-morrow afternoon at 2 o'clock from the Sands Funeral Chapel. Rev. F. C. Chapman will officiate, and the remains will be laid to rest in the Royal Oak Burial Park.

The death took place on Sunday at the family residence, 193 Oxford Avenue, of William Foursace, age seventy-two. He was born in Kildersford, Somerset, England, and had been a resident of this city for the last five years. There survive his widow at home, one son, Archibald J., secretary of the J.B.A.A., and four grandchildren. The remains are resting at the Sands Funeral Chapel and the funeral will take place on Wednesday at 3:30 o'clock from the residence. Interment will be in Royal Oak Burial Park.

A large number of friends attended the funeral of Mrs. Mary Stevens, which took place on Saturday afternoon from McCall Brothers' Funeral Home. Rev. Donald Walker, assisted by Rev. H. J. McAllister, conducted the services at the chapel. Rev. W. J. Knott, assisting at the service at the graveside. During the service the hymns "The Sands of Time Are Sinking" and "O Love That Will Not Let Me Go" were sung. Interment was in Royal Oak Burial Park. The following acted as pallbearers: E. Morgan, R. Taylor, F. W. Battick, G. Pirie, W. Turnbull and G. Clemon.

Nanaimo, Sept. 8.—But for the prompt work of the local fire brigade the Jones home on Mill Street would have been destroyed by fire Saturday night. The fire broke out at 8:30 p.m. and the building was well ablaze when the brigade arrived and brought it under control. The damage is estimated $5,000, which is partly covered by insurance.

COOPER SAYS ELECTION IN '31 IN BRITAIN

Capt. Duff Cooper, Husband of Lady Diana Cooper, is Visiting Here

Thinks MacDonald Government Will Be Defeated on Unemployment Issue

Great Britain will be in the throes of another general election next year, and the Conservative party will go into the fight with Sir Neville Chamberlain as its leader, in the opinion of Capt. Alfred Cooper, D.S.O., husband of the famous British beauty, Lady Diana Cooper.

The distinguished party arrived at the Empress Hotel to-day from the east, and will remain in the city for several days.

The party is composed of Capt. Duff Cooper, Lady Diana Cooper, perhaps better known as Lady Diana Manners, youngest daughter of the eighth Duke of Rutland; Viscount Ednam and his son, Bobby, nine years of age.

Viscount Ednam is the husband of the late Viscountess Ednam, who recently was killed when flying from Paris to London.

"In political circles in London it is predicted that there will be a general election in Britain by next spring, or during 1931," said Capt. Duff Cooper in an interview with The Times to-day. It was one of the questions this fall, because of the Imperial Conference, he said.

The election, Capt. Cooper said, would be brought about by the defeat of the Labour government on the unemployment question.

"They promised to relieve the unemployment situation, and they haven't done so," he stated. "There are a million more unemployed in Great Britain to-day than there were when the MacDonald government went into office."

Asked if Stanley Baldwin would continue to lead the Conservative party, Capt. Cooper admitted that he probably did so for a time. The man who would probably lead the Conservative party at the next election would be Arthur Neville Chamberlain. He felt it would not be Lord Beaverbrook.

Capt. Duff Cooper said he would be in the fight again at the next election. He represented the Oldham division in the British Commons from 1924 to 1929, when he was defeated by the Labour candidate. He is now definitely committed to contest in the Conservative cause the Winchester division, following the retirement of Major Sir George Hennessey from politics. He will have as his opponent, Dr. Lister, Labour candidate.

Lady Cooper attracted a great deal of attention following the arrival of the party here by the morning boat from Vancouver.

She was charmed with the gardens of the Empress Hotel, and roamed about them for some time during the forenoon, accompanied by her husband and Viscount Ednam. She is delighted with her first trip through Canada.

Lady Diana is a skillful election campaigner, and it is possible that she may yet contest a seat in the British Parliament. In any event, Capt. Cooper looks to her to assist him in the next election.

Lady Diana was prominent in the public eye a few years ago when she married the "Buck" in New York and Los Angeles.

It is not at all improbable that she may, at some future date, take a leading part in the moving picture industry in England or at Hollywood.

Wallace Shoots 68 To Tie Record For Colwood Links

Norman Wallace, Colwood champion, was in rare form yesterday, shooting the brilliant score of 68 to equal the amateur record for the course, held by Harold Lineham. Wallace was two under par. The best amateur score in competition for Colwood is 70.

Wallace went out in 35 which is par, but coming back he scored a 33 to complete his sensational round. Wallace had two birdies and an eagle during his round.

Wallace's card follows: Out 33, 34, 34—25. In, 435, 433, 344—33, 68.

DEBTORS HAILED BEFORE COURT FOR EXAMINING

Lawyers Have Field Day as Judgment Summons Sessions Open

To-day was judgment summons field day before Judge Lampman in the County Court when sheriff's process-servers brought up debtors from all parts of the district for a general investigation of their financial standings and the reasons why they have not and are not paying their bills.

Stairways and corridors on the second floor of the Court House building were jammed with debtors waiting their turn to be put on the stand. Inside the court, there was a line-up of lawyers waiting their turn to examine the various debtors in the box and examine them as to details of their incomes and expenditures.

To-day's line-up for the debt-grilling was one of the longest the local court has had, one of the reasons being general hard times and another the fact that the long summer legal vacation has also been a judgment summons vacation.

Oath is Taken BY ALL MEMBERS OF NEW COMMONS

Canadian Press

Ottawa, Sept. 8.—Before taking their seats in the House of Commons to-day, all members took an oath of allegiance and fidelity to the Crown. This is a necessary formality without which no person is eligible to be a member of the House of Commons.

For two or three hours this morning Arthur Beauchamp, clerk of the House, presided at his table on the floor of the chamber administering the oath to the members. Besides taking the oath, each member signed his name to the "roll roll," a book which will be laid away in the Federal archives as a permanent and lasting record of the personnel on the Seventeenth Parliament of Canada.

In groups or singly, the members took the oath, the terminology of which was specified in the British North America Act. It is as follows: "I do swear I will be faithful and bear true allegiance to His Majesty King George the Fifth."

French-speaking members took the same oath in that language.

Investigation of charges made in connection with Mount Douglas Park will be carried out by the Victoria and Saanich Parks and Beaches Committee. A meeting will be held on September 16 at 4 o'clock.

The committee will meet at the park itself to determine the exact situation in regard to removal of gravel and trees, and a proposed roadway, alleged by residents to be a violation of crown grant rights.

The city's representatives on the committee are Mayor Anson and Aldermen Feden, Woodward and Worthington while Saanich is represented by Reeve Crouch and Councilors Watson, Borden and Hagan.

EXPERTS SWEAR TRAWLER SEIZED BEYOND LIMIT

Navigators Testify in Admiralty Court on Facts in Patrol Boat's Log

Case Prolonged When New Witnesses Called; No Sitting This Afternoon

Trial over the seizure of the four Alaska trawlers by the Canadian fishery patrol steamer Rivid, started on its second week to-day in the Admiralty Court before Mr. Justice Martin.

It had been expected that the hearings would end to-day, but just after Admiralty Marshal Goggin opened the court, it became apparent that the case would be prolonged, when William Savage, counsel for the defence, brought to court two navigating experts.

First of these experts, Capt. John Downes, former C.P.R. navigator, on the Empress of Canada, testified that on the readings in the log book of the Rivid, the trawler, May, was 3.5 miles from land when seized and that, therefore, safe beyond the three-mile limit. The distances were all worked out by chart and compass in the court.

Following him, Capt. John Arnold Phillips, another expert navigator, was put on the stand. He also worked with the log book, the charts and compass, and finally announced that the May was 3 1/2 miles from shore when seized.

Capt. Berthel O. Knudsen of the May, was put on the stand and testified as to the rough weather conditions which forced him to seek shelter in Canadian waters off Queen Charlotte Islands at the time he was seized. The court held no sitting this afternoon, adjourning until 10 o'clock Tuesday morning, when Captain Knudsen will again take the stand.

Airplane Stops To Pick Up Passenger On Way To Mainland

Picking up passengers en route is nothing new to the bus transportation systems of the city, but when the Alaska-Washington Airways plane stops to take aboard a passenger on its way from Victoria to Vancouver, the waterfront buzzes with all sorts of rumors.

This morning Captain MacKenzie brought his machine to rest on the waters of little Ross Bay and among the people along the waterfront considerable discussion arose as to the cause of his arrival.

However, it proved just a new method of picking up passengers, as it was seen when a fishing boat put out from the shore to carry a man to the plane for the Vancouver trip.

No engine trouble or other serious accident had brought the plane to the water, it was learned here from the booking office.

COMMITTEE TO INQUIRE INTO PARK CHARGES

Investigation of charges made in connection with Mount Douglas Park will be carried out by the Victoria and Saanich Parks and Beaches Committee. A meeting will be held on September 16 at 4 o'clock.

The committee will meet at the park itself to determine the exact situation in regard to removal of gravel and trees, and a proposed roadway, alleged by residents to be a violation of crown grant rights.

The city's representatives on the committee are Mayor Anson and Aldermen Feden, Woodward and Worthington while Saanich is represented by Reeve Crouch and Councilors Watson, Borden and Hagan.

FOR SO FINE A PIANO THE COST IS SURPRISINGLY SMALL

THE MAKING of a fine piano, as of any other fine thing, involves certain fixed costs. If these costs are reduced beyond a certain point, the product ceases to be fine. . . . Yet more that 70 years' experience in the manufacture of the best pianos has taught Steinway & Sons how to reduce these costs to the safest possible minimum. To them is added a modest profit, and the result is the market price—so moderate that it is a pleasant surprise to those who are already familiar with the incomparable tone and durability of Steinway pianos. There are many styles and prices. Drop in and see them—today.

INQUEST IS HELD ON FOUR VICTIMS

Special to The Times

Nanaimo, Sept. 8.—Coroner Hickling held an inquest on four victims of the Orient disaster on Saturday afternoon.

After hearing the evidence of four witnesses the coroner's jury adjourned for a month at the call of the coroner.

Dr. Hall, who made autopsy of Capt. Rudd, stated that he died from acute fatigue of the heart as a result of fatigue or exposure. The deaths of the other three being due to drowning.

Alfred Ellingsen, one of the survivors, gave evidence recounting details of the collision and being rescued by a boat from the Admiral Nulton. A statement was presented by the police from R. E. Pichard, caretaker of Sirocco Light-house, who said his first intimation of the disaster was hearing a man shouting for help from the rocks beneath the lighthouse.

Pichard signalled the Nulton and a lifeboat was put out.

He could not state whether there was any neglect on the part of the Nulton. The four bodies are being shipped to Seattle to-day for burial.

RICHMOND WINS

Vancouver, Sept. 8.—Going to places in the second half after having put up a splendid fight in the opening quarters, Victoria was defeated 11-3 by Richmond in the first game of their series for the British Columbia intermediate lacrosse championship at Brighouse Park yesterday. The second and final game will be played at Victoria next Saturday; total goals deciding the title. Richmond won the championship last year.

TO-DAY'S GRAIN MARKETS

(By Branson, Brown & Co. Ltd.)

Winnipeg, Sept. 8.—Wheat: The action of the market to-day was distinctly disappointing to those who were looking for it to be somewhat better and especially in the face of the firmness in Liverpool and the general news which was more or less bullish. The market was moderately active at the start with local buying on the strength in Chicago and with Chicago wheat buyers on December on spreads.

There was some hedging pressure at the start which apparently filled up the demand and the market turned exceptionally dull after the first hour with no outside interest being shown. Hedging pressure on the whole was very light but the pool again unfolded some October wheat which caused a very poor demand and prices slipped away to fully 2 cents under Saturday's close after being 1/2 cents higher early.

Export business over the week-end was very small, being confined to a few scattered loads and had a depressing effect on sentiment. The forecasted showers over the week-end in western Canada did not materialize, the weather remaining light and moderately warm and countervailing of wheat Saturday's advance. The market was steady at 6.98, 6.98 1/2 bushels vs. 6.92, 6.92 1/2 a year ago.

Some attention was paid to the report that Russia was not preparing to export wheat and was taking somewhat firmer prices. Reports on European prices were also less favorable and the decrease in on passage supplies in spite of moderately better weather. The market was taken as indicating a good and increasing demand abroad.

There was only a small business passing in cash wheat although shippers were in the market for practically all grades at unchanged spreads, but offerings continue light. The United States visible supply increased 2,569,000 and the Canadian visible increased 2,249,000. The market was weak at the close with the pool still selling October wheat. Final figures were 3 cents lower.

Coarse grains—These markets continued just as quiet as ever with nothing of feature going on. The weakness in wheat pulled prices down but there was very little selling pressure in evidence. Just an odd car changed hands in cash market. Flat quiet and featureless, 3 to 4 cents lower.

Liverpool cables due 2 1/2 to 1 1/2 lower on Winnipeg.

Dorothy Dix

"Generally Speaking, the Better a Woman Does Her Duty to Her Husband the Better She Does It to Her Children, for in That Way She Holds Her Home Together," Declares Dorothy Dix

IS A WOMAN'S duty greater to her husband or to her children? I think that a woman's duty is incomparably greater to her children than it is to her husband. Her husband is the man with whom she entered into the matrimonial partnership, and her duties to him are specific and well defined and dependent, more or less, on his conduct and how he fulfills his part of the bargain with her.

Under certain conditions, it seems to me, that her moral obligations are wiped out. It is certainly no part of a wife's duty to love and honor an unfaithful husband, or to work and make a comfortable home for a drunkard who defiles her roof with his debauches. If a woman still continues to give affection to the man who has been disloyal to her and to cherish the one she has to fish out of the gutter, it is of her grace, and not because he has any right to expect or demand it of her.

In a word, when a husband fails in his duty to his wife, by that same token he cancels her obligation to him; but no matter what a woman's children do, her duty to them never ends because her responsibility never ceases.

She brought them without their volition into the world. She not only thrust life upon them, but she shaped their lives. She gave them their heredity because she picked out their father for them as well as sending her own blood through their veins. She made their environment. It was her influence that was predominant in their formative years. Therefore, a mother's first duty is to care for these hostages she has given to fortune. It outranks all other obligations and when the good of the children demands it she should not only sacrifice her husband to them, but herself.

I see no reason why a childless woman should endure the martyrdom of marriage that is a hell on earth, nor why it is her duty to put up with insult and abuse from a brutal husband who misuses her. But if a woman has children and has no way to provide for them, I think that it is her duty to endure any misery that may be her portion in marriage in order to secure for her children the food, the clothes, the education, the start in the world that their father can give them.

I think, however, that most women overdo their duty to their children and underdo their duty to their husbands. They sacrifice their husbands needlessly and causelessly to their children, which is one of the main reasons why in the end so many husbands default on their marriage obligations.

It generally begins with the first baby, when a young woman is so anxious to be a good mother that she forgets that she has any obligation to be a good wife. Before the arrival of the little stranger who is to be her husband's fatal rival, she has spent her time catering to husband and she has doted herself up so that she may look good to him. She has spent her evenings amusing and entertaining him and going about with him. She has been lover and comrade.

But with the advent of the baby only too often all of this is changed. She lets herself get sloppy and sloppy because baby pulls at her clothes and musses her hair. She has no interest in anything but the baby, no conversation about anything but baby. Wild horses couldn't drag her away from the cradle, and she is frankly relieved when husband goes out by himself of an evening and leaves her to perform her rites of infant worship in peace.

Now these cases, and they are plentiful, of the sacrifice of the father to the child are unnecessary. It does a child no good for a mother to sit and watch it sleep, while her whole happiness and the ultimate welfare of the child depends upon her watching her husband and seeing that he does not stray away from his own fireside in search of the society his wife is too much absorbed to give him.

Many a wife forgets that, while she can hire a reliable woman to take care of her children there is no woman she can trust to take care of her husband, and while she is in the nursery holding little Johnny's hands some vamp is generally holding hands with her husband.

Furthermore, this process of making father a goat for the children does not end with the cradle. It continues. Women justify themselves in shutting up their houses and going away for two or three months at a time in the summer and leaving their husbands alone in the city by saying that they do it for their children.

The children must have country air and coolness and room to play in, and so the mothers, calmly hugging this alibi to their breasts, go forth to summer hotels with their offspring and then feel themselves grievously ill-used because their husbands finally rebel at being sacrificed to the children and console themselves after the fashion of summer widowers.

And there are other mothers who enslave their husbands for their children and who literally work their husbands to death to give their children fine clothes, fine cars and a thousand frills that they cannot afford. We all know households in which the husband is the shabbiest member of the family; a person pushed about from place to place, his happiness and pleasure never considered; nothing but a bill payer.

If it comes to a showdown between the two, a woman's duty to her children is greater than it is to her husband, but it is not her duty to sacrifice her husband needlessly to her children. Generally speaking, the better she does her duty to her husband the better she does it to her children. For in that way she keeps her home together, as she does not do when she is so absorbed in her children that she forgets she has a husband at all and leaves him either to grouch over being neglected, or to be stolen by some other woman.

Find New Way Of Using Peat

Much time and labor have been spent by Sweden in the development of years upon the solution of the problem of the utilization of peat in a more economical and extended industrial manner.

So far, however, very little has been attained in the way of practical results but the research work has not been abandoned. During the last couple of years the problem has been thoroughly investigated at Strangshult peat factory under the leadership of D. W. Berlin. This work has resulted in a couple of patents covering some new principles of the manufacturing process and finally they have succeeded in placing the matter in a new and more promising condition.

To obtain the raw material they make use of the so-called hydro-peat procedure, which was developed in Russia about 20 years ago by a Swedish chemist, and which is still in use there, as well as in some other countries.

The peat mass is loosened from the bog ground by spraying with strong water jets, and is pumped to the factory in the form of thin pulp. One advantage of this method is that the loose-sprayed peat mass can be stored in the bog during the winter, thus making it possible to secure a sufficient supply of raw material for continuous working of the factory during the entire year.

The peat pulp in the factory is subjected to a wet carbonization process, according to the principles patented by the inventors. The major part of the water is removed by a centrifuging and, by a special method, the remainder is evaporated to contain a residual water content of 10 per cent.
